GOP Contest In Third District Unsettled; Recount Possible

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

And then there were two.

The field of eight Republican candidates for the Third District congressional nomination narrowed Wednesday to Mrs. Haven Smith of Chappell and McCook Mayor Don Blank.

And a winner will not be declared until after Thursday's tabulation of absentee ballots, with the final result possibly hanging on a recount in the huge 61-county district.

It's that close.

At the conclusion of vote counting Wednesday, Mrs. Smith held a 155-vote lead over Blank.

With 834 of 839 precincts reporting, unofficial returns gave Mrs. Smith 15,434 votes and Blank 15,279

The five missing precincts were in Cherry County.

The winner will meet Democratic nominee Wayne Ziebarth in November.

The estimate on uncounted absentee ballots is about 2,900.

Blank and Mrs. Smith exchanged the lead throughout Wednesday's count, neither able to build a comfortable margin.

Falling off the pace at dawn was State Sen. Gerald Stromer of Kearney. Earlier, State Sen. J. James Waldron had faltered.

The other four aspirants were out of the race much earlier.

Blank, a 38-year-old McCook dentist, is a former (1969) president of the Nebraska Jaycees.

Mrs. Smith, 62, a Chappell homemaker, is best known as a 20-year member of the board of directors of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Her state government experience includes past membership on the governing board for state colleges and on the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women.

Stromer, 31, former chairman of the Nebraska Federation of Young Republicans, finished third.

Waldron, 37, was fourth.

Both Stromer and Waldron are completing their terms in the Legislature, leaving public office in January.

Out of the contest early were Grand Island insurance agent James Wenger, Kearney State College professor Jack Langford, Thedford cattleman Ronald Blauvelt and Hildreth pastor Gerald Lundby.

Both Blank and Mrs. Smith captured about 21% of the Republican vote. Stromer gathered 19%, while Waldron claimed almost 12%.

Mrs. Smith led in 23 of the 61 counties, Blank was out front in 13 counties.

Stromer won 12 counties; Blauvelt grabbed eight, and Waldron won three. Both Wenger and Lunby garnered a single county. The race fractured into geographical areas, with Wenger winning his home town of Grand Island, Stromer winning Kearney, Waldron winning North Platte and Blank sweeping McCook by an astonishing margin.

In Red Willow County (McCook), Blank's 1,194 votes compared to a second place total of 193

But the head-to-head dash between Blank and Mrs. Smith was best typified in Scotts Bluff County, where she gathered 1,109 votes and he garnered 1,108.

Ziebarth, the Democratic winner, grabbed 69% of the vote in turning back Wellfleet farmer Ralph Miller.

A former (1969-73) state senator, Ziebarth is a Wilcox farmer and sought the Democratic nomination for the U S. Senate in 1972.

At stake is Congressman Dave Martin's seat in the House of Representatives, which he is leaving after seven terms

In the only other congressional contest of the 1974 primary elections, Douglas County Commissioner Dan Lynch romped to a surprisingly easy victory over Omaha City Councilman John Hlavacek for the Second District Democratic nomination.

Lynch, 52, won 64% of the vote, carried Douglas County by more than 12,000 votes and won four of the district's five counties, losing only Cass.

Lynch will meet Republican Congressman John McCollister, 52, who is seeking a third term

The First District race will match two-term Republican Congressman Charles Thone, 50, against former Democratic State Chairman Hess Dyas, 37.

COLOR 20 Die In Carnage

MAALOT, Israel (AP) — Israeli soldiers charged with guns blazing into a school in this half-Jewish, half-Arab village Wednesday in what officials described as a desperate last-minute effort to stop three Palestinian guerrillas from blowing up hostages who included about 85 Israeli teen-agers.

The carnage left virtually all the hostages — vacationing pupils and several chaperones — dead or wounded. The terrorists also were killed.

The Israeli military command said 16 hostages were killed in the school and one Israeli soldier was killed by terrorist sniper fire before the building was stormed. Seventy hostages were wounded.

An explosion went off inside the school and smoke poured from its windows as the Israeli attack began with bursts of gunfire that lasted for about 10 minutes. Some of the children were injured when they jumped from second-story windows of the building where they had been held at gunpoint for about 13 hours.

Before they seized the school, the same terrorists had killed five other Maalot residents.

A family of four — a seven-months' pregnant woman, her husband and two children — were massacred in their beds in an apartment near the school. An Arab woman was killed when the guerrillas ambushed a truck.

The attack came less than 24 hours after police issued a public warning about the possibility of terrorist attacks on Wednesday, the 26th anniversary of Israel's independence, which was celebrated last month by the Jewish calendar.

Premier Golda Meir vowed in an emotional television address that Israel "will do everything in its power to chop off the hands that intend to harm a child or an adult, in a city or in a village."

In past cases of terrorism, the Israelis have staged retaliatory attacks on guerrilla bases in neighboring Arab lands. Mrs. Meir's remarks were taken as a hint another such attack might follow this second terrorist strike inside Israel in a little over a month.

The Popular Democratic Front (PDF), a Maoist-oriented Palestinian group that had committed no known terrorist acts in four years, claimed responsibility for the Maalot operation.

A communique issued by the group in Beirut, Lebanon, said: "The catastrophe has happened and Israel alone shoulders the responsibility."

It maintained that the Israelis did not meet guerrilla demands for the release of terrorist prisoners and that the school had been blown up. It denied an Israeli claim that the guerrillas started the shooting that led to the Israeli assault.

In Damascus, Syria, the PDF held a news conference and a leader who refused to give his name said the attack had been planned three months earlier. He said two of the gunmen came from inside Israel, and the third was a resident of the occupied west bank of the Jordan River.

The Arabs seized the youths, who were here on a tour, as they slept in sleeping bags shortly before dawn and threatened to blow them up at 6 p.m. — 11 a m. CDT — unless the Israeli government freed 20 terrorists from prison. The government agreed to do this and an effort was under way by the French and Romanian ambassadors to negotiate the exchange.

Information Minister Shimon Peres said the terrorists failed to receive a code signal they were awaiting from agents in Paris and Bucharest to free the youngsters.

"Either the school would be blown up and everybody would be killed or else we had to break in and save as many of the children as possible," Peres told a news conference.

The PDF spokesman in Damascus, however, said the terrorists had agreed to a two-hour extension of the deadline just before Israeli troops stormed the school.

After the guerrillas seized the school, Defense Minister Moshe Dayan flew to the scene. Villagers screamed at him that Maalot had been left undefended. Some tried to punch him as others shouted, "Lynch him!" But later after the troops killed the guerrillas the villagers praised Dayan.

The school tragedy was only one terrorist action. The same gunmen killed a sleeping family of four in an apartment near the school, including two children and their mother, seven months pregnant, and killed an Arab woman when they ambushed a truck.

Saboteurs blew up a pipeline at Israel's biggest oil refinery, in Haifa port, and police dismantled three Katyusha rockets aimed at the heart of Jerusalem from near a United Nations headquarters.

The sudden burst of terrorism forced Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to suspend his Mideast truce mission temporarily. He postponed negotiations with Israel and a flight to Damascus, Syria. Kissinger denounced the school takeover as "mindless" violence that threatened Mideast peace prospects.

11 Tapes, Nixon Schedules Subpoenaed By Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee voted 37 to 1 Wednesday to subpoena 11 more Watergate tapes President Nixon has refused to turn over to its impeachment inquiry.

By top-heavy votes it also subpoenaed scheduling diaries of Nixon's meetings and conversations during four periods of time, and there were indications it would decide soon whether to subpoena up to 66 more tapes dealing with non-Watergate matters.

The committee members, meanwhile, got their first chance Wednesday to compare a tape already on hand with the White House transcripts.

One of two tapes heard by the panel was of a Sept. 15, 1972, meeting involving the President, H. R. Haldeman and John W. Dean III. A transcript of that conversation was released last week by the President.

Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., called the tape "much more damaging than the White House transcripts."

"When you hear how they have been planning and plotting, your worst suspicions are aroused," he said. Others voiced similar appraisals.

The vote on the Watergate tapes, supported by all committee Republicans except Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Michigan, was a direct challenge to Nixon, who notified the committee last week he would give it no more Watergate material. The subpoena calls for delivery of the tapes next Wednesday.

The 11 conversations covered by the new subpoena deal with plans for bugging Democratic headquarters, conversations a few days after the Watergate break-in, and efforts to get the CIA to limit the FBI investigation of the break-in.

That's as far as Chief Counsel John Doar has gotten in his presentation of evidence to the committee, which he resumed after the vote on the subpoenas.

In other Watergate developments Wednesday:

—Dwight L. Chapin, the President's former appointments secretary, was sentenced to 10 to 30 months in prison for his April 5 conviction on two counts of lying to a grand jury about political trickster Donald Segretti. Chapin, 33, had pleaded for clemency, saying that both he and Segretti already were "marked for life as the dirty tricks team." But U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell declared that "your resort to . . . swearing falsely cannot be condoned." Chapin, who could have received up to five years in prison, remained free on bond for an appeal.

—President Nixon reversed himself and allowed his chief of staff, Alexander M. Haig Jr., to testify Wednesday afternoon before the Senate Watergate Committee. The waiver of executive privilege applied only to the panel's interest in Haig's knowledge of how a $100,000 contribution was handled after it was given to Nixon's friend, C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, by representatives of billionaire Howard Hughes. "He's answered every question we've put to him" on the matter, said the committee chairman after Haig had appeared in closed session for one and one-half hours.

—Earlier, the Senate committee voted unanimously to ask the full Senate to extend its life to June 30, partly to give its staff time to remove from the panel's final report any references to individual guilt or innocence in the scandal. Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., acknowledged that step was taken to lessen chances the report might influence the impeachment inquiry in the House.

Injuries Claim Alliance Man

By The Associated Press

Injuries suffered in a car-pedestrian accident May 8 have claimed the life of an elderly Alliance man.

The State Patrol said William Speilman, 84, died late Wednesday afternoon in an Alliance hospital.

Speilman was struck by a car driven by Russell Krechbaum, 32, also of Alliance, according to officials.

The mishap occurred on an Alliance street.

Posing A Nude Leads To Night In Tokyo's Jail

The girl, whose name was withheld because of her age, was not arrested.

Fluoridation Rejected In 110 Towns

By JOEL THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

In special-issue voting marked by confusion on the part of voters and election officials alike, five towns approved fluoridation in primary voting Tuesday — while another 110 communities sent the dental decay-preventive measure down the tube.

Given the opportunity to exempt themselves from mandatory fluoridation legislation by Jan. 1, 1975, voters in those towns where opponents managed to get the issue on the ballot by petition overwhelmingly rejected fluoridation.

The largest setbacks to fluoridation advocates were Beatrice, which voted against the measure 1,548-1,008; Grand Island, 2,932-2,603; Hastings, 4,610-2,132; and Holdrege, 1,036-795.

Towns voting in favor of fluoridation were Friend, 105-91; Hickman, 66-60; Hubbard, 34-27; Scribner, 155-118; and Tilden, 196-81.

In many towns, the issue was stated on the ballot in negative sentences. Voters in those towns had to vote "yes" to vote against fluoridation and "no" to vote for fluoridation.

Juding from the responses of spokesmen of county clerks' offices in gathering the vote totals, the negative wording had a confusing effect. In many counties, the officials themselves weren't quite sure whether fluoridation had won or lost.

The confusion resulted in widespread reports that fluoridation had been approved in Davey, Cozad, Elmwood, and Farnam. Fluoridation instead was defeated in each of those towns.

In Hubbard, according to a spokesman for the Dakota County clerk's office, voters had apparently been confused by the negative wording of a long, three-part ordinance banning fluoridation — and approved the measure.

Fluoridation's widest positive margin was 2½ to 1 in Tilden. There, a spokeswoman for the county clerk's office said, voters faced a longish, negatively worded ballot issue. The question had been stated in the papers, however, in a brief, positive sentence.

Air Base Stockade Eyed For Possible Jail Uses

The Jail Study Task Force of the County-City Implementation Commission Tuesday agreed to schedule a tour of an abandoned stockade at the former Lincoln Air Force Base.

The decision came after discussion of possibly using the facility as an alternative to imprisonment in the City Jail in the basement of the County-City Building.

Municipal Court Judge Donald Grant said the stockade "could be the answer to a lot of problems"

He said the stockade has defined areas of minimum, medium and maximum security and an observation point permitting surveillance of all areas

"There's a lot of space, lots of room for outdoor recreation," commented Fred Holbert, University of Nebraska-Lincoln professor

"There's lots of windows," added Marj Marlette

On another issue, Grant and County Judge Jeffre Cheuvront told the task force that recent legislation reforming the bail system and permitting police to issue citations in criminal cases rather than making arrests will have little effect in reducing the number of people in the city jail.

"As far as local people go, we hardly ever put a bond on them unless they have a poor record of showing up in court," Grant said

Cheuvront said that he cannot imagine that an officer will issue a citation to anyone who would not have been released from jail under existing procedures

Portugal's Cabinet Includes 2 Communists, 3 Socialists

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Gen. Antonio de Spinola took over as president of Portugal on Wednesday and named a new government that includes Communists for the first time in the country's history.

A few hours after his installation as president, Spinola picked liberal lawyer Adelino da Palmas Carlos as premier to lead the new government promised since the April 25 coup that ended 42 years of dictatorship in Portugal.

Two Communists were on the Cabinet list — Alvaro Cunhal, 60-year-old head of the Portuguese Communist party, who became minister without portfolio, and Minister of Labor Avelino Pacheco Goncalves, head of the Oporto bank union.

The minister of justice is Francisco Salgado Zenha, a socialist who had been jailed by the old regime and banned from leaving Portugal.

Another Socialist, Raul Rego, director of the Socialist newspaper La Republica, was named information minister.

Socialist Mario Soares, exiled for more than 4½ years, became the new foreign minister. He has been living in France, lecturing in universities there. He returned after the coup that drove Premier Marcello Caetano from power. Soares is 49 years old.

The announcement of the new government was made by a spokesman for the seven-man military junta that has run the country since the revolt. Earlier it named Spinola the country's president in a glittering inaugural ceremony at a Portuguese palace outside the capital.

AP

Gen. Spinola . . . president.

In a speech after his installation, Spinola warned minorities against interfering with plans for democracy in Africa or at home.

He did not specify what minorities he meant. In Africa, the whites are a minority. In the opinion of many Portuguese, the black rebels are also minorities. In Portugal, the junta has been trying to prevent left-wing minorities from taking over important sections of government and private business.

Spinola read his inaugural address in a rather high, unemotional voice, replacing his usual monocle with a pair of glasses.

"It would be well to recall that dictators have always begun by making changes at the edge of established institutions amid euphoric popular applause," he said. "It is this demagogic way of transforming power into tyranny with the support of delirious masses that has always been at the origin of totalitarian regimes."

Spinola began with praise for the armed forces that put him in power.

In his only reference to other countries, Spinola said: "In foreign affairs, we shall keep our commitments of a political, economic and military nature, for which there are no reasonable limits at this moment but those which clearly arise from the circumstances of the moment in which we live and from safeguards against immediate risks."

He called for:

—Speeding up economic expansion.

—Complete freedom for workers and employers to organize along democratic lines.

—Dismantling the old "corporative" system of economic organization.

—Creating a climate suitable for setting up parties that express all currents of opinion.

—Promoting the free election of a constituent assembly.

—A referendum on a new school law.

—Handing over power to new, freely constituted institutions.

Auto-Making Rise Called Reason For Increased Industrial Output

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's industrial output rose in April for the first time in five months, largely because of a recovery in auto production, the government reported Wednesday.

The April increase of four-tenths of 1 per cent showed that the nation's business recovery may be on target with government forecasts. Industrial output declined three-tenths of 1 per cent in March and six-tenths of 1 per cent in February.

The administration has predicted that the steep first quarter slide in the country's economy would flatten out in the second quarter and be followed by a resumption of economic growth after mid-year.

A spokesman for the President's Council of Economic Advisers said the April production figures are consistent with predictions that the economic slowdown would level out in the second quarter.

Although he cautioned against reading too much into figures for one month, he said, "We felt we would not have a recession . . . we continue to feel that way."

The government also reported an $865 million surplus in the nation's balance of payments for the first quarter of the year, a big decline from the surplus of $2.7 billion in the last quarter of 1973.

A major factor in the worsening payments position was the higher cost of foreign oil. The cost of oil imports rose 72 per cent to $4.6 billion, while the quantity declined by 19 per cent.

But the report on industrial production indicated the worst of the economic slowdown resulting from the oil shortage may be over.

Auto assemblies increased 14 per cent in April to an annual rate of 7.5 million units, compared with a rate of 6.6 million units in March, the industrial production report said.

Production of business equipment continued to increase in April and there also were advances in output of iron and steel mill products, the government report said.

In other economic developments:

—The Commerce Department said accumulation of inventories by the nation's business rose $2.5 billion in March, compared with $3.1 billion in February. It said total business sales rose 1.5 per cent.

—Director John T. Dunlop of the Cost of Living Council said he still expects most businesses to honor the price restraining commitments made to the council prior to expiration of the wage and price control program on April 30.

Oil Forces Lose Vote In Caucus

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oil-state forces lost a major power struggle Wednesday as House Democrats instructed their colleagues who control the Rules Committee to let the House vote on multibillion-dollar petroleum tax reform proposals.

The action was denounced by the American Petroleum Institute in a statement saying: "If a lynch mob attitude prevails in Congress over petroleum tax legislation, the nation will suffer a devastating setback in its efforts to attain a reasonable degree of energy self-sufficiency."

A pair of voice votes by House Democrats climaxed a closed-door special caucus providing the first real test of recently adopted party procedures. They represented victories for Reps. William J. Green, D-Pa., and Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio.

Along with the oil industry, it was a defeat for Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., who said "a lot of people are going to be hurt in my district, a whole lot;" and a setback for a majority of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee and its Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark. Mills was absent and described by an aide as ill at home.

Albert said he always favored the oil and natural gas depletion allowance which Green's proposal would abolish in a step that would mean roughly a $2 billion-a-year boost in petroleum industry taxes. He told reporters the caucus action is "a mistake. I may be wrong. Obviously, many of my colleagues didn't agree."

Green, who terms the depletion allowance "the most blatant of oil industry tax subsidies," emerged from the 90-minute caucus with a wide grin. He waved his fist in the air as a victory signal.

An equally happy Vanik stepped out of the House chamber a few minutes later.

Both said they considered the caucus decision binding on the Rules Committee's Democrats. Green and Vanik are members of the Ways and Means Committee.

But Rep. Joe D. Waggonner Jr., D-La., a Ways and Means Committee member who has attacked the panel's version as already too tough on the industry, disagreed with Green and Vanik on whether the caucus directive is binding on Rules Committee Democrats — specially three who are from oil states. Waggonner said: "How are you going to bind them if they have taken contrary positions?"

Arnold Heights' Group To Combat Fear

By JIM DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

The Arnold Heights Community Betterment Association voted Wednesday night to work with neighborhood residents to see that any actions taken regarding the housing of Indians at the old Air Base are based on fact and not on fear or emotion.

Supporters of Indians on trial for violations occurring during the occupation of Wounded Knee will be housed in an abandoned barrack provided by Bud Irons.

Association president Harvey Schwartz said he felt 80% of the residents "do not object at all to people coming and living in the barracks."

Schwartz said his feeling was not based on fact but on perception.

The association may conduct an opinion survey to determine more precisely the feeling of the residents.

Commenting on the concern of whether or not residents would be indemnified against destruction of their property in case of a disturbance, Schwartz said nearly every insurance policy contains a provision protecting the property owner against pillage or looting done during a "riot or civil commotion."

He said renters insurance policies usually contain the same provision.

Schwartz pointed out that there was "no great uproar of fear" when Job Corps participants were housed in the same barrack a few years ago and speculated that the people in the Job Corps probably had worse criminal records than the Indians who will be living there over the next months.

Speaking of the effort by a group of Arnold Heights residents to legally stop the housing of the Indians in the barrack, Mike Merwick, assistant to the mayor, said he could see no grounds for an injunction.

He said an injunction would have to be based on more than the fear something may happen and pointed out that the housing agreement was simply an agreement between a private citizen and a group of people.

Merwick said the utilities have been hooked up and provisions are being placed in the barrack.

He told the group the facility has an adequate fire detection system, and it has been approved by health authorities.

Turning to police protection for the area, Merwick said another police cruiser will be assigned to the area and noted that it takes considerably less than 20 minutes for police to get to the area.

Charges had been made by residents that it took the police 20 minutes to get to Arnold Heights.

A police officer who lives in the area said that in April he was assigned to that district and was sent to an accident on No. 48th.

He said that he started from 1st and West O and it took him four minutes to reach the location, and that he had to drive 35 miles an hour for the last two to two and a half minutes because he was looking for the accident.

Merwick said that there will be fewer trials than previously thought because some of the 120 charges will be dismissed.

He said most of the charges are minor offenses including petty larceny, burglary, firearms violations and interfering with a federal officer.

Beside the Arnold Heights Community Betterment Association working for peaceful conditions, the Arnold Heights Altar Society of St. Mary's Church is doing its part.

In a press release the society said, "We feel this is an excellent opportunity for the people of Lincoln to express a spirit of Christian love and brotherhood."

Other officers elected were Virginia Luck, vice president, and Betty Dyer, secretary. Tom Carroll was re-elected treasurer.

Elected to the board of trustees were Dudley Bailey, Larry Brown, Karen Dienstbier, Lois Hansen and Marj Marlette.

Dorothy Brandt and Lee Filbeck were named as new members of the committee on committees.

In other business, the congregation accepted the recommendation of board members that the church proceed with a proposed $60,000 building improvement plan.

The money would be used mainly for two offices and additional church school space, according to the Rev. Charles Stephen.

The Rev. Mr. Stephen also announced that church membership is at a high of 360.

Named to the boards of deacons and deaconesses were Mrs. Brian Erickson, Keith Cockrell, Mrs. John James, Jim Sackett, Keith Surface and Mrs. G. Christian Weiss.

Members also voted to adopt a budget of $28,700 and to host the Great Plains Baptist Conference in April 1975.

Personnel Group Elects Oepping

Members of the Lincoln Personnel Management Assn. unanimously elected Ray Oepping president at their annual business meeting. He is personnel manager for Square-D Co.

A Formidable Team

If the Democratic lieutenant governor primary was to be a measure of Gov. Exon's political prestige and influence, as the governor and others, including, not incidentally, Sen. Richard Marvel, indicated it would be, Exon rides tall in the saddle across Nebraska's political landscape today.

says. The legend from the Panhandle has Jerry Whelan of Hastings, scored an amazingly lopsided victory in the four-man Democratic race for the lieutenant governor nomination which culminated Tuesday in a landslide — under the circumstances — of Whelan votes.

The election results can be attributed, of course, to Whelan's qualifications, his dogged, dawn-to-midnight personal campaigning over the past few weeks and the horse sense of Nebraska Democrats. But it also must be attributed to Exon's lay-it-on-the-line endorsement and the media blitz that accompanied it. Without that, a Whelan victory of such magnitude, or perhaps a Whelan victory at all, would have been most doubtful. Whelan had an enormously wide name recognition gap to cope with and with Exon's help, he bridged it.

In tending to their own affairs without heeding the desperation cries of "bossism" from Marvel, the GOP's gubernatorial candidate, and Whelan's opponents, Nebraska Democrats fashioned a formidable team, the strongest pairing possible, to face the Republican Marvel-Batchelder ticket in November.

Whelan's win also spells an end to the long political career of Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, or so Carpenter says. The legend from the panhandle has promised to resign from the Legislature immediately and never run for public office again. It is, in that case, a melancholy day. His forty years of political hijinks and constructive achievement raised the political consciousness in this state to a level that wouldn't have been achieved without him.

If Carpenter is embittered over his second-place showing behind Whelan, it is truly too bad. Two years ago, Carpenter made a game run against Sen. Carl Curtis after having won the Democratic U.S. Senate primary with 29% of the vote. This week, he captured 25% of the Democratic vote under circumstances which saw the governor on the side of one of his opponents. We can hardly call that a massive rejection of Carpenter's record.

Nebraska, however, moves on.

Solons Bat Zero For Three

Tuesday was a good day for incumbent members of the Legislature running for reelection. All but Sen. Walter Epke won first money in their primary races and Epke managed renomination by finishing second in the 24th District contest.

But it was not a good day for three measures sponsored by the Legislature.

Voters rejected Amendment No. 1, which would have given state senators their first pay raise in six years, leaving the senatorial wage at an inadequate and unfair $4,800 per year. When it comes to good government, Nebraskans obviously want a free lunch.

Spurned, too, was Amendment No. 2, a Unicameral offering which would have allowed lawmakers to choose their own presiding officer and would have placed the lieutenant governor exclusively in the executive domain, where he or she belongs in conformance with the administrative team concept. The picture of an executive finger in the legislative pie apparently appealed to a majority of Nebraskans.

And the Legislature-mandated fluoridation of municipal water supplies was accepted by only a handful of Nebraska communities, while voters in scores of towns and cities threw away a chance to better their children's dental health through the initiative petition process.

Lamentably, these three reasonable proposals conceived by the people's representatives were rejected by the people.

Church-State In Tandem

One hears so much about separation of church and state that it is heartening to notice in the actions of the Lincoln Board of Education an apparent improvement in church and state relations. We do not mean to infer that the Lincoln school system is abandoning constitutional law but it is demonstrating a constructive and perfectly legal attitude.

In a number of areas such as driver education and special education, Superintendent John Prasch and the board are thinking in terms of access to regular public school classes by private school students. Prasch has even mentioned such a possible utilization of this tool as to open up large areas of regular public school curriculum to private school students.

Not all the problems in this area of things are solved, by a long ways, but the spirit which now seems to prevail between private and public school interests is far more wholesome than was the case even a short five years ago. From the point where this relationship once started, at arm's length, we have come a very long way.

Continued good will on both sides will ultimately prove that cooperation and respect will enhance both the public and private school systems. It will prove, too, that these two systems can exist in both a competitive and complementary arrangement within the framework of ample protection against excessive private benefit from public tax funds.

And most importantly, it will provide for greater educational opportunity for all young people, regardless of what their personal religious commitment might be.

Hatching Dinosaur Eggs

PARIS — The Portuguese coup and the revolution developing in its wake are bound to have important strategic repercussions throughout Africa as that continent's last colonial empire starts to unravel. For now that Lisbon inferentially acknowledges it can no longer forcibly rule Angola and Mozambique, it is inevitable that they must either break away or dissolve in racial war.

Six years ago, in Luanda, the governor general of Angola told me he thought there were sufficient Portuguese troops in that immense colony to frustrate the campaign of nationalist guerrillas based in the former French and Belgian Congos. But, he added, "the greatest danger is a revolution in the Metropole. We can't foresee what influence that might have on us."

Now that revolution has come. It is highly improbable it will successfully resolve Portugal's imperial problem by transforming erstwhile colonies into self-governing dominions. That system was tried by Britain and France and it did not work.

The inescapable question is whether independence can be arranged on a multi-racial basis under black control or whether the white minority, sided by the educated black civilizado and assimilado class will try to emulate Rhodesian whites and proclaim their own Unilateral Declaration of Independence.

Either way, blood must flow. The various black independence movements in Guinea-Bissau (small and relatively unimportant), Angola and Mozambique are bound to continue their drive for total freedom. And many die-hard white settlers are likely to remain in Angola and Mozambique to try to create a less oppressive version of U.D.I.

In this they will be encouraged by many Portuguese in the Metropole as well as by South Africa, Rhodesia and (covertly) France. There has been for some years an informal system of cooperation between these countries, aimed at combatting "communist" penetration.

This arrangement includes the French sale of arms to South Africa, arms which have sometimes been passed on to Portuguese colonial officials in Angola and Mozambique, as well as Rhodesia. There has also been intensive exchange of intelligence.

South Africa has always sought to create a "white belt" between its own domain and the more powerful black states such as Zambia, Zaire and Tanzania. The principal buffers have hitherto been Angola, Mozambique and Rhodesia.

Portuguese interest has been the stubborn attempt to maintain an empire in an age that had already doomed this system. France has had less obvious concern.

North of Angola, in pro-French Gabon, Paris has made use of large uranium deposits for its nuclear defense and power programs. And off the coast of Mozambique it has sought to control the Indian Ocean channel through military detachments and bases in Madagascar and also the Comores Islands (which are still under French rule.)

Some day the Mozambique channel may become a key to world sea lanes. Today's enormous super-tankers can never negotiate the Suez Canal, even when it is enlarged, and therefore wend their way along the coast between Mozambique and Madagascar.

Also, France recognizes that the tide of independence in Mozambique may further encourage revolutionaries already stirring up the Comores Archipelago from Tanzania and Kenya. Paris does not wish to risk its Comores naval base in the Indian Ocean becoming available to Russia.

If the black nationalist movements gain full control of Angola, they may well make South Africa's tenure of the mandated territory of Namibia impossible. And if they gain full control of Mozambique, they will cut off the trunk railway from Johannesburg to the sea and also sever Rhodesia's only artery through the U.N. blockade, which at present pumps sustenance from Beira to Salisbury.

These are therefore key strategic points in the post-imperial struggle that is bound to start up in the wake of Portuguese events. Undoubtedly South Africa and Rhodesia will openly encourage partition movements — to insure, at the very least, continuing white control of the Mozambique port cities and of southern Africa.

Nevertheless, as the French found out in Indochina and North Africa, when empires start crumbling they crumble fast. And the effort by white Frenchmen in Algeria at least to partition that country and hang on to the littoral could not be sustained.

Harold MacMillan once said to me: "The dinosaur was the largest beast, but it was inefficient and therefore disappeared. The British empire was a dinosaur." And the very last dinosaur is the Portuguese empire, a beast now laying its final eggs. They will hatch trouble.

President, Lincoln
Tennis Association

The Star's May 13 editorial speaking against the proposed tennis center at Woods Park lacks understanding and accuracy. In the first place, I would like to make it clear that we, the Lincoln Tennis Association, do not regard Lincoln's public tennis program as "a miserable failure". In fact, we think that Don Smith, director of the Parks and Recreation Department, has done a commendable job in providing the neighborhood parks with tennis facilities. I would also like to make it clear that most of these facilities are being used and that Woods Park is, by far, the most popular location.

The point is that the popularity of tennis is so great and is growing so fast that it is time to go beyond the "neighborhood concept" and develop a central site, Woods Park being the most likely choice. (A recent survey shows that, as a participant sport, tennis is now even more popular than golf.) Obviously, the "neighborhood concept" has its limitations. Imagine the impracticality of having a court in every block.

The proposed tennis center would enable players to find competition at their own level and would provide incentives to work up to higher levels. There would be plenty of "tennis talk" and availability of better players to watch. Finding a "game" would be a simple matter and could often be done on the spur of the moment. Even when no competition or courts were available, a player could practice against a "bang-board," read instructional articles from magazines or books, engage in tennis conversation, or watch other players.

The center would be for all players, but there would be a special emphasis on youth activities. In this respect, it would be patterned after Dewey Center in Omaha which offers continuous competition in almost every conceivable age bracket. We feel that such a center would be an excellent place for youngsters to spend their free time and to develop their bodies and minds. There is no question that it would lead to finer quality of play in our high schools and universities.

The center would also make it possible for the city to sponsor tournaments and run them effectively. Imagine running a golf tournament without a clubhouse.

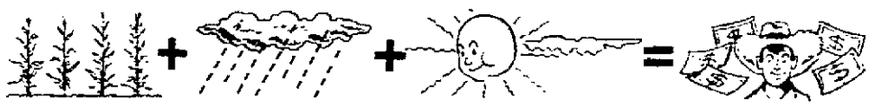

Having an attendant present would enable players to call in for reservations and eliminate waiting for a court to open up in a neighborhood park. Also, with people present most of the time, vandalism is less likely to occur.

As for cost, both of Omaha's centers, Dewey Park (outdoors) and Hanscom Park (indoors) pay for themselves by charging nominal rates. There is every reason to believe that the proposed center at Woods Park would be equally successful. Surely, 50c an hour per person is not a "highly prohibitive fee". This is precisely what Dewey charges for the use of its courts (juniors can play free until 3:00 p.m. on weekdays).

Although I stand on my assertion that tennis can "pay for itself", I would like to point out that a community is judged by the quality of life it supports and that a certain amount of underwriting by the city is often desirable. No matter how you look at it, the proposed tennis center would be a valuable asset to the City of Lincoln.

Patchwork Prairie Country

I read just the other day that the average size of all living animals, including man, is almost that of a housefly. Well, next to standing on the rim of the Grand Canyon and looking into the vast gorges below, this phrase has cut me down to size, and made me feel as insignificant as a housefly. I don't have to crawl upside down on the ceiling to feel this way, either.

It is no wonder the bugs are coming at us from every direction. How many aphids would it take to make an elephant if they could be equated? How many minnows to make a whale?

Then of course there are all those microscopic bacteria that fight their way through another living cycle, now and then turning upon man himself. I have often wondered who will endure the longest period of time on this earth of ours. I know the insects were here long before man arrived on the scene. No doubt long after man has perished, the insects will still be walking about: the ants in their colonies, the praying mantis and the various beetles, eating on the green plants unaware that man, in seeking to destroy them, destroyed himself.

Last night we went to graduation in our town, almost a yearly event with us, but a happy one. How youthful the graduating class looked . . . . a phenomenon I have observed in the last few years. After giving it some thought, I have come to the conclusion the yourth look younger each year because I am looking older.

When I was their age, I didn't think of myself as still being almost a child, with little experience and little knowledge to base my wordly decisions upon. Although I thought, like all of my other classmates, that there was little left to learn, I soon arrived at the conclusion that most of the learning process occurs after one leaves school.

We get the basics in school, the tools to work with, the ability to apply the learned skills of reading and math but the real application of these acquired begins after the diploma is in hand.

It took some juggling of the finances to make the forty-five dollars I received per month teaching school stretch until my next paycheck arrived.

Somehow the equations I learned in algebra class didn't always work out . . . the left of the equation didn't always equal the right side, a personal error in computation, I thought. I never was very adept in math. Nevertheless I continued teaching, always striving to put a few dollars in a savings account, happy in my work and secure in the thought that all was right with the world.

Now that gray has salt and peppered my hair somewhat, I am not so certain that all is right with the world, but looking at the graduating class last night, I am confident they will do a bit more in their generation to equate this business just as we tried in our generation. They, too, have hope and enthusiasm and dreams to fulfill.

The Farmer will finish planting milo today. Sixty-five acres of corn have been planted. Soybeans will be planted later. The days of sunlight grow longer and the earth warms under the streaming rays, here and there making a vapor of heat near the surface. Good growing weather lends enthusiasm to this farming business. Farmers have appreciated the fair skies of May. It has allowed them to get their crops into the ground without the worry of too much rain such as we have had at planting time in other years.

Now that the seed is in the ground, farmers would like to see a nice gentle rain, more days of sunlight and warmth, another nice rain etc. This arrangement would greatly aid them getting the left side of the equation to equal the right side. This may be quite a trick. With seed corn selling for thirty dollars a bushel, fertilizer double in price, fuel marked up to the highest price level ever, corn had better be a good price next fall and winter to strike a balance.

Well, maybe The Farmer is better in math than I am. Let's see now if X=Y, then A=B.

Equal Time For God

Lincoln, Neb.

In a recent article, Mr. Nels W. Forde expressed his concern for the civil rights of those who oppose abortion regulations and the civil rights of those who would promulgate or merchandise pornography. Then in a complete right-about-face, he insists that banning evolutionary courses in the local junior high schools would violate the rights of those who want to hear it, while he says nothing about the rights of those who do not want to be taught this. Apparently they are to have no rights.

Is it not strange that those who advocate the rights of those who would have no restrictions on abortion or pornography or the teaching of a godless evolution, see no inconsistency in denying the right of the unborn child to life and the pursuit of happiness, or in denying the child in the public school the right not to be exposed to objectionable films or obscene or profane books, or to listen to the theory of an atheistic evolution being taught, while God is treated as a myth, ignored, or mentioned only in cursing? Why can God not be given equal treatment?

Mr. Forde seems to feel that the pious mob is trying to enforce a Christian ethic on all. He apparently has very little understanding of what true Christianity is. You can twist someone's arm, but you cannot force him to believe. Belief in Christ is of the heart.

Believing in the person and character of God as we do, how are we to be quiet about those things which are so contrary to His righteousness? This we cannot do.

Destruction By Spray

Wilber, Neb.

It is spring and a beautiful time of the year, with everything so fresh, the gardens growing and the flowers in bloom. And now is the time for the spoiler to move in with the noisiest cloud of wild spray and destroy it all.

Where is the farmer's wife who raises a garden and where is the mighty hunter? They should stand up and be counted. I think it is high time we all did a little jumping up and down and hollering, because of the county road ditches where the mama pheasant has her nest tucked away, and because of the roadside gardens, especially now with food prices so shockingly and outrageously high.

Not only is such spraying destroying wildlife and gardens, but it is making a big hole in the taxpayer's pocket.

So, ladies and might hunters, speak out lest you be sprayed out. God made this good and beautiful earth so life could exist. Only an idiot would destroy it with spray.

Change In Election Laws

Broken Bow, Neb.

About a year ago I wrote a letter concerning Watergate, expressing my disgust with the whole investigation. Now after a year and several million dollars spent, absolutely nothing has been accomplished. At least, not anything constructive. At that time, I stated that Nixon was being assassinated. Now I've changed the term to "crucified."

Even if he resigns, is impeached or vindicated, not a thing will be proved. The only possible good that could come out of it is if we get a complete change in our election laws. And I don't mean the limiting or disclosing of sources of contributions.

I have always maintained that a candidate for public office should be subject to the same penalty for libel and slander as a private citizen. In other words, he should not be allowed to make any statement about his opponent which he would not back up in court. This provision alone would cut down campaign expenses to a minimum.

If it should come to the point where a limitation is put on campaign expenses, I think the limit should be one-half of the salary for one term. Filing fees would be allowed above these figures.

I am in favor of adequate salaries for our public officials. But any time anyone spends more to run for an office than the salary he will get, you can be right sure he doesn't intend to donate this just for good government.

Thanks To The Mayor

Lincoln, Neb.

As a citizen of Lincoln, I appreciate very much the leadership which Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf is exhibiting in trying to find suitable housing for our Indian guests who will soon be coming to Lincoln for the Wounded Knee trials, and for asking all of us in Lincoln to be open and neighborly to our Indian guests.

Firm Again Asking OK For Office

By LYNN ZENGCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The "if at first you don't succeed" slogan seems to be the motto of Farm Bureau Insurance Co. of Nebraska.

The firm again is seeking a zoning change to allow construction of a two-story, million-dollar office building in northwest Lincoln.

And attorney Lloyd Marti again pleaded with the Planning Commission Wednesday to endorse the plan as it did last August. That plan died at the hands of the City Council in October, which killed the application on a 4-3 vote.

The insurance company is seeking a change of zone from A-2 Single Family to F Restricted Commercial on the southeast corner of 1st and Superior. A total of 16 acres of land is involved in the rezoning request.

Marti maintained the land is not suited for single family residential development, as contended by Planning Director Doug Brogden. Marti said the typography of the land is too rough.

And, he said, the meadowland has never been farmed.

The former mayor mused that "years ago Indians used to ride across it. They might as well keep on doing it if you think single family dwellings are going to develop there.

Marti also contended the home office building would upgrade the area and help stop the flood of mobile homes from moving farther to the north.

Acknowledging that the application does not fit in with the Comprehensive Plan, Marti told commissioners, "You change the plan every day."

He cited the commission's and council's approval of Omaha developer Gene Wilczewski's zoning applications for 1,100 acres of land "just a stone's throw away from our land."

He noted that Wilczewski received city approval after Farm Bureau's application was denied.

Opposition to the proposal was registered by attorney Dave Pierson, representing several residents of the area.

Pierson said approval of Wilczewski's Highlands subdivision "makes all the difference in the world" as far as Farm Bureau's application is concerned.

Pierson said there are 20 acres of land zoned F Restricted Commercial, in the Highlands, and suggested that the firm locate there instead.

Marti responded that Wilczewski's prices are higher than Farm Bureau is willing to pay and that the firm prefers the site it has picked and now owns.

A representative of the Northwest Lincoln Community Assn. opposed the plan, citing increased traffic and loss of open green space along Interstate 80 as reasons.

Developer Carl Witt endorsed the firm's plan, saying he could see no better use for the 16 acres of land.

The commission is slated to act on the application next Wednesday.

John F. Kennedy Jr. Robbed

NEW YORK (AP) — A teen-aged Central Park marauder was sought Wednesday, after he robbed John F. Kennedy Jr., of an expensive bicycle and a tennis racket. The 13-year-old son of the late president is supposed to be under Secret Service protection.

"Get the hell off the bike," the thief told Kennedy, pushing him off the $145 10-speeder. The robber then mounted the bicycle, grabbed the tennis racket and pedaled off into the park.

Neither young Kennedy nor a 14-year-old companion was physically harmed.

The thief was described as about 18 years of age and 5 feet, 10 inches tall. He accosted young Kennedy about 5 p.m. Tuesday near the 90th Street and Fifth Avenue entrance to the park, as the latter was on his way to a tennis lesson.

Kennedy informed police of the incident. They drove him through the park in a patrol car but were unable to locate the thief.

In Washington, a U.S. Secret Service spokesman said young Kennedy still was under its protection, but declined to comment on the park incident.

A tennis instructor at the Central Park court to which Kennedy was headed said Wednesday that the Secret Service agent assigned to the youngster had come to the courts to await Kennedy's arrival. The instructor said the agent told him that young Kennedy had asked him to go to the court, and not accompany him on the bicycle ride through the park.

Young Kennedy's mother, Jacqueline Onassis, has an apartment on the east side of the park on Fifth Avenue. The tennis court is located on the west side of the park.

Transportation Guidelines Revised

The Planning Commission Wednesday approved the revisions to the Operations Plan for transportation planning.

Those amendments include provisions to insure consideration of the social, economic and environmental effects of transportation planning as required by the Federal Highway Administration.

The revised plan will be used in transportation planning in Lincoln and Lancaster County.

The amended version already has won the approval of the Goals and Policies Monitoring Committee, the transportation technical committee, the Department of Roads and Federal Highway Administration regional officials.

In other business, the commission held a public hearing on Robert Hall's application to build a community unit plan in the Stevens Creek watershed, at 98th and Van Dorn.

Hall is proposing to build 106 homes on a 121-acre tract. An added bonus would be construction of a lake.

He is also proposing to build a central water supply system and a central sewage disposal system.

Planning Director Doug Brogden pointed out that the application is quite similar to the proposed Rolling Greens community unit plan killed by the City Council several weeks ago.

The Goals and Policies Report does not support this type of development located in a rural area, Brogden said.

However, he said until the council transforms that policy into law, he has to recommend approval of all such applications.

The commission is scheduled to act on the measure next week.

The commission deferred a public hearing one week on Hub Hall's application to construct a community unit plan south of Old Cheney Rd. and west of 56th.

The commission held hearings or took action on:

Lies In Military Reports Called Legal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force law office says it is legal, for military or foreign policy reasons, to disguise military operations through inaccurate or untrue official reports.

The conclusion was stated in a memorandum to the Senate Armed Services Committee in connection with the committee's investigation last year of the secret bombing of Cambodia for 14 months prior to May 1970.

The memorandum last August from Brig. Gen. Harold R. Vague, then acting judge advocate general of the Air Force, was made public Wednesday with the release of the printed record of the committee hearings last July and August.

Officials testified at the hearing that the bombing raids on North Vietnamese troop sanctuaries inside Cambodia were authorized by President Nixon in March 1969. They said correct information on the 3,630 secret sorties went to a few top Pentagon and White House officials, but "fake" reports identifying targets in South Vietnam were fed into Pentagon computers and later formed the basis of erroneous reports to Congress.

The Air Force legal opinion said "military history abounds in such cover stories, from the Trojan horse to the elaborate deceptions designed to cover the location and timing of the invasion of Europe in World War II."

And, he said, once competent authority has directed special security measures for military operations, members of the armed forces are obligated to insure that security is effective and obey orders from superiors to include erroneous information in official reports when necessary to back up a cover story.

Soviets Offered Summit Meeting To China Head

Moscow (UPI) — The government newspaper Izvestia disclosed Wednesday the Soviet Union offered last June to hold a summit meeting with Mao Tse-Tung in an attempt to bridge its widening rift with China.

It said Peking never replied, but that the offer was still in effect.

Western diplomats specializing in Sino-Soviet relations said the article in the government newspaper was the first indication such an offer had ever been made.

Amputation Claimed Result Of Negligence

A suit has been filed in Lancaster District Court against Lincoln General Hospital and Dr. H. E. Mitchell in connection with alleged negligence resulting in the amputation of the leg of a 14-year-old girl..

According to the petition filed by Ethel VerMaas in behalf of her granddaughter. Terri Lee Tyre, Terri was admitted to the hospital on Nov. 26, 1973, for surgery on her feet.

The plaintiff alleges that surgery was performed on the girl's feet in preparation for a triple arthrodesis of the foot at a later date.

According to the petition, cast placements on the feet were "too tight" and "not properly padded" and the cast on the right extremity was made without any drainage from the surgery site and without using proper antibiotics in or about the wound.

The plaintiff further contends that a proper opening in the cast over the surgical wound in order to facilitate healing was not made and no tetanus toxide or anti-toxins were adimnistered.

On Nov. 28, 1973, the plaintiff developed gangrene of the right lower extremeity, the petition states, and as a result the leg had to be amputated below the knee on Jan. 5

According to the plaintiff, the girl had only a valgus deformity of the right foot on admission to the hospital but due to the negligence of the defendants her foot and a portion of the leg had to be amputated.

Th plaintiffs seek general and special damages in addition to $100,000 for future necessary care and treatment.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Common-Law Wives Are Usually Approved For Social Security As Widows

By ROBERT PETERSON

QUESTION: I'm 60, have arthritis, and can't work. My husband died last year and the bad thing is that while we lived together 36 years and had three children, we never got around to getting married. This means I've been a common-law wife. Will I be able to collect on his Social Security, as a widow? I don't have a marriage certificate or anything, and I don't want the children to know. What can I do?"

ANSWER: — A Social Security official tells me that claims of common-law wives are usually approved if sufficient proof is shown that a couple lived together many years and that the husband had no other wives. He suggests you talk it over confidentially with folks at your Social Security office. Take along written statements concerning the length of time you lived with this man, the addresses where you lived, the dates of birth of your children, and the names of two or three trusted, well-known people, such as doctor or minister, who can vouch for the fact that you were considered husband and wife.

QUESTION: — "You were right telling that 77-year-old woman to swallow her vanity and have a new photo taken to please her children. My dearest possession is a picture of my mother that we insisted she take at age 80. She looks so sweet that every day I pick up the picture and say, 'Hello dear mother.' Every wrinkle and line means something precious to me as I think of her life of sacrifice, often not appreciated by us five children. Will you urge other elders to have photos taken for their loved ones?"

ANSWER: Will do. The passing years should be revered and we should stop thinking that age is an unattractive quality to be hidden and concealed. Most children will place far greater value on recent photos of their parents than on pictures taken long ago.

QUESTION: — "What does condominimum mean, and what's the difference between a condominium and a cooperative apartment?"

ANSWER: — Condominium is a word coming from the ancient Roman law of sovereignty and refers to a building in which each tenant has title to his apartment and owns it outright. He arranges his own mortgage and when he wants to sell he needs no one's approval. In a cooperative, however, tenants own stock based on the size of the apartment in a parent corporation which pays for the mortgages, taxes, and upkeep. The individual cannot sell his stock in the apartment except with the approval of the corporation.

QUESTION: — Every big city has a skid row filled with dirty old men panhandling drinks. But you don't find old women reduced to such depravity despite the fact that they are often said to have less money are are more apt to be alone. Why is this?"

ANSWER: — Sociologists who have studied this mystery attribute it to the fact that older women by nature are less adventurous, more inclined to stay in the safety of their rooms, and seemingly have a keener sense of self-respect.

San Francisco — Excursions and alarums (as Will Shakespeare directed). I said: "Comb your hair. You can't go to school that way." He said: "I did comb my hair."

Most men part their hair on the left but this boy has his parted on the right. It grows more that way. It grows every way but if it's parted on the right it looks better.

Men part their hair on the left because their mamas were right-handed. They started them off that way.

My hair was parted on the left ("Hey grandma, not so hard! you're pulling my hair!") Then I combed it straight back — a lot of movie stars did it.

Later I started parting it again. In the hair game most of us are losers. I was laying camouflage across the top.

Now I go to a witchy hairdresser. She combs it all forward. It's OK as long as you stay away from three-way mirrors.

It's a brave new world, mates. "If you can keep your hair when all about you are losing theirs" — well, you've got something going.

By the time this moppet's hair is ready to depart, science will have figured out a way to grow hair.

The moppets belong to the moon landing age. "Are we going to take the car? Why can't we fly?"

Once the airlines sent me a handsome wall plaque: "In appreciation of your valuable contribution to air transport progress."

I don't look on myself as a contributor. More like a survivor.

When I think of the piston engine jobs I rode on. Now I know why my hands were clammy. "Two turning and two burning" was the word. And the cold, cold Atlantic down below.

When I was swinging on a gate, I had plenty of top layer. Grandma said: "I declare, I just get that boy one haircut and next day he needs another."

"Mae Wests will be worn on takeoff and landing," said the flight sergeant. "No smoking while we're in the air. We're carrying extra gas tanks inside and sometimes they leak."

He said to me: "Sir, you'd better wear your cap when we land. That tropic sun is strong. Might sunburn your head."

He sat down in a bucket seat and began unwrapping a stick of gum. He had hair like a gorilla — at 18 years and that kind of hair you don't have to wear a cap.

Maybe that flight is what they meant by my contribution to air transport. The hairless non-smoker.

"Each morn a thousand roses bring, you say:
"Yes, but where leaves the rose of yesterday?"

Omar Khayyam said it. The Persian poet did his best work while taking on the vino. Don't knock the grape, friend.

When faced with slings and arrows of ourtage, fall back on cooking sherry. It won't grow hair. Won't cure the common cold. But it does something — and that's more than science can do.

The witchy hairdresser said: "I think it's looking a lot thicker." All of us desperation chaps go to the ladies' beauty parlor.

We sit under the dryers while the lady regulars give us sneering looks. (But what's Equal Rights all about, men? Why can't we be equal?)

Sitting under the humming dryer. A-dreaming of the locks long gone but not forgotten. ("Pardon me, madam, can I see that old Vogue when you're through reading it?")

Rejected Lover Planned Suicide

Paderborn, West Germany (AP) — Police were handed a note Monday night that a rejected lover planned to crash his small plane into the center of Paderborn unless his girlfriend changed her mind.

The girl was persuaded to help. While he circled the town for four hours, she talked to him on the radio.

He finally landed and police said the couple held a midnight reunion on the airstrip.

dear abby

Dog Lover May Bite People

DEAR ABBY I have this theory, and I would like your opinion. If you want to know a person's true character, find out how he feels about animals

People who like animals, and make a big fuss over them have a very kind and affectionate nature and are likely to make good mates and parents

But a person who dislikes animals (especially dogs and cats) and either ignores or mistreats them, is sure to be unkind, inconsiderate and unaffectionate and will probably make a very poor mate or parent

What do you think?

ANIMAL LOVER

DEAR LOVER: Generalizations are dangerous. There are people who relate much better to animals than they do to humans, so they naturally make a big fuss over animals — but it doesn't necessarily follow that they will make better mates or parents. We've all known animal lovers who lavish an excessive amount of affection on pets, but who are cruel to people. The best index to a person's character is (a) how he treats people who can't do him any good, and (b) how he treats people who can't fight back.

DEAR ABBY I will have to go back a long way to fill you in on what kind of person I am, and my wife as well.

Fifty years ago I married a preacher's daughter I was the town "bad boy." I was late to my own wedding as I was rolling dice in the back room behind the barber shop and forgot the time The wedding got a late start, and we missed the train for our honeymoon

We raised four good kids, though The boys both got through college and are doing well, and the girls married fine men We have ten nice grandchildren I'm retired now, so I'm spending more time playing cards with the boys at the club The problem my wife is threatening to divorce me over my not getting home on time I get tied up talking to somebody or shooting pool, or playing cards, and I don't know where the time goes I get home late, and the wife is ready to skin me

She never had to work outside the house a day in her life, and we've always had a joint checking account I never looked at another woman, and I drink like a gentleman But she says if I am late once more it's the end of our marriage Is this fair?

THE LATE JOHN S McB

DEAR LATE: My guess is that she doesn't mean it. But on the chance that I'm wrong, shape up and keep your eye on the clock, Grandpa.

Opening lead - two of clubs

It is generally recognized that perfect defense is more difficult than perfect dummy play.

Consider this deal where South opened a weak notrump (12 to 14 points). West doubled, North passed, and East also passed, confident of beating the contract with his 9 points

West led a club, East's king forcing the ace, and South played a heart to the king, followed by a heart to the jack. West took the ace and made the best return of a heart to East's queen.

East studied the situation carefully and decided against a club return He reasoned that declarer, known to have started with three hearts and four clubs, probably had four spades and two diamonds rather than three of each suit.

He drew this conclusion from West's deuce of clubs lead, which showed a four-card suit. Since West would have been more likely to lead from a four-card major than a four-card minor, the implication was strong that he did not have four spades.

Accordingly East returned a low diamond and the defense cashed four diamonds, leading to this position

East now returned a club, won by West with the eight, and West contributed his share to the super-defense when he led the queen of spades. As a result, South could score only the ace of spades and he went limping off the field of battle to the tune of minus 700.

'Democracy And Its Discontents'

A demon has been loosed on the American landscape, and it goes by the name of Discontent.

Its rumblings are born not of the distress of impoverished and downtrodden minorities; but rather of the restless feeling of emptiness exhibited by the many who have reaped the "benefits" of an overly-successful society.

"There is an obvious cure for Failure — and that is Success. But what is the cure for Success?" queries noted American historian, Daniel Boorstin, in his newest book.

That book, "Democracy And Its Discontents· Reflections On Everday America" (Random House), represents an attempt to answer the above question.

But first, Boorstin sets the scene by examining the nature of a success which has left in its wake, frustration and malaise.

The American Success Story, Boorstin explains, has been largely defined in terms of technological advances. Advances originally designed to make our lives better, but which have, along the way, made us victims of technological overkill.

Instantaneous communication, made possible by television, radio and daily newspapers, has resulted in "overcommunication."

"... There's always somebody out there trying to tell us something — in fact, demanding to tell us something — and there is no escape," Boorstin writes.

Advertising has become the "rhetoric of democracy;" the art of persuasion now overshadows the quest for knowledge.

We are witnessing a "cheapening of the word," the author says. And we are the poorer for it.

America's technological successes have led to boredom, he continues. We quest after something, and once we get it, we become dissatisfied with it.

Witness the space program (which Boorstin commends, yet which, nevertheless, provides a good example). Who, today, rushes to their TV set to watch a splashdown? Because we have been so successful in these endeavors, no one pays any attention anymore. Some have even begun to criticize.

For most, there is no longer a sense of excitement, or adventure — in anything.

Boorstin writes of democracy's desire "to give everything to everybody." And he feels that, as we approach that goal, our experience is flattened:

In a society in which anyone can go anywhere — by way of television or the automobile — the elation of actually "going" is lessened.

Technology has also made it possible for an individual to retreat into his own little world, where he can do everything for himself, push-button style. And face-to-face communication between people — which the author feels provides social glue — has diminished.

Technology has left us with the feeling that things are moving too fast to be stopped. Too much money and time has been invested — we can't quit now.

And it has led us to a false belief that there is an easy solution to everything. We are frustrated because we haven't learned that, as Boorstin puts it, "In human history in the long run there are no solutions, only problems."

Aside from our technological successes, there is another problem, according to Boorstin. We are imprisoned in the present, he says. "We have lost our sense of history."

Americans tear down old buildings to make room for modern monstrosities; sociologists lead us to believe that things are worse than they ever have been.

"Our very instruments of education, of information and of 'progress' make it harder every day for us to keep our bearings in the larger universe, in the stream of history and in the whole world of peoples who feel strong ties to their past," Boorstin claims.

And, as part of his solution for the discontent that plagues us, he asks us to recapture this sense of history: "Only so can we have the wisdom not to mistake passing fads for great movements, not to mistake the fanaticisms of a few for the deep beliefs of the many, not to mistake fashion for revolution."

He invites us to take a look at ourselves in historical perspective. And he challenges us to revitalize, in the process, the spirit of adventure, of exploration.

Such is Boorstin's solution.

On the whole, he speaks well for his profession. He is an eloquent representative for the "historical" point of view.

And except for one passage — when he himself ignores the realities of history, by implying that recent attempts by minority groups to gain political power, represent a departure from the American tradition — Boorstin's book is a refreshing, lucid diagnosis of what ails us.

Herman By A Nose?

It was a close race, and the Lincoln-Lancaster League of Women Voters have declared a tie for FIRST MALE MEMBER. Dick Herman (left), Lincoln reporter, called the League in an effort to be Number 1, but Wallace Peterson (right), professor and chairman of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Economics, already had his money in the mail. Gar Donnelson (center), marketing results supervisor for Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co., was a certain second.

For the first time in the 50-year history of the organization men can now be full members with voting and office holding privileges.

The local League chapter will hold its annual meeting Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Lincoln Center Building, followed by a luncheon and panel discussion on downtown Lincoln.

Follow 9-Day Diet

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

If you are tired of any extra pounds you may have, I am here to help you with my New Nine-Day Reducing Diet which gives you a loss of from five to 10 pounds in nine days.

Since this is a short rapid slimmer it is essential that you follow it strictly.

No cheating allowed! No alcohol and only two teaspoons of margarine or butter each day to use as you wish on bread or eggs.

The menus need not be dreary if you will pep them up with herbs. Such tems as thyme, marjoram, tarragon vinegar, dill weed, oregano, garlic, mint, parsley, chives, lemon juice, onion, nutmeg, cinnamon, ginger and rosemary can be used generously. Experiment!

For instance, lemon juice is excellent on brocolli, nutmeg on spinach, tarragon vinegar on greens, and rosemary on chicken.

Menus — For Tomorrow

Breakfast: ½ grapefruit, one piece whole wheat toast, black coffee or tea with lemon.

Mid Morning: Glass of tomato juice (6 oz.).

Lunch: Broiled open face sandwich: 1 slice toast, fish filet, lemon or soy sauce, broiled half tomato with herbs, salad greens with lemon juice, one glass buttermilk.

Dinner: Two raw carrots, one moderate portion chicken, roasted, boiled or broiled, half cup zucchini squash, mixed salad greens with plain yogurt for dressing, fresh fruit (apple or pear).

Evening: Club soda.

If you would like to have my new Nine-Day Bulge and Budget Beater Diet in booklet form, send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper. It will slim you, but not your pocketbook!

Mrs. Wagner says to cook the large potato in 2½ to 3 cups of water — then use all of the water for the runsa dough. The recipe calls for nine (9) cups of flour

Introducing the Ethan Allen decorator chair.

It's not just a place to sit; it's a way to decorate.

Most people would love to see their living room decorated with flair, style and originality. But they're not quite sure they can do it alone.

If that sounds like you, come to our Ethan Allen Gallery for help. First we'll show you our unique decorator chairs. Some swivel. Some rock. In fact, they're just about the most versatile pieces of furniture we sell.

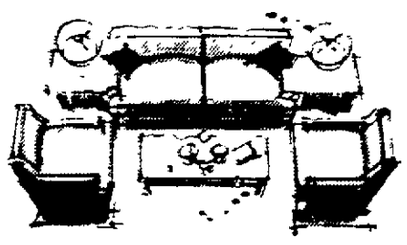

They're a perfect complement to a love seat or sofa. Or, arranged with a table and lamp, the ideal answer for that hard-to-decorate corner.

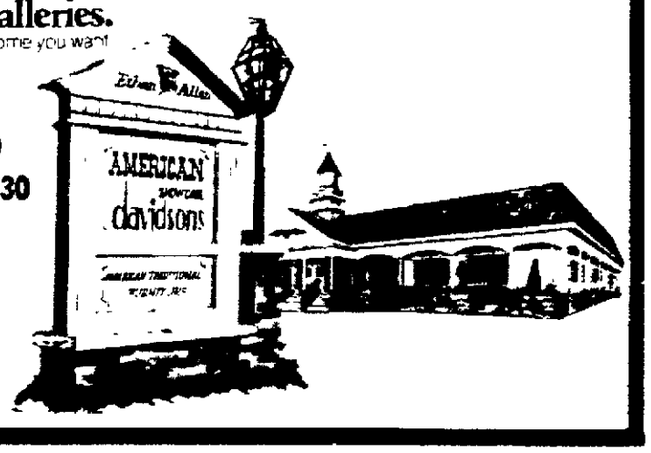

And most important, the person who shows you around will be one of our expert home planners. He'll show you the many ways you can decorate with our chairs. And how the different shapes, sizes and fabrics they come in can work best in your own home.

Our decorator chairs are already made up in a choice selection of fabrics. So once you've decided, you can immediately enjoy them in your home.

Visit our Ethan Allen Gallery soon. You'll see that our decorator chair is a lot more than a place to sit. And that our Gallery is a lot more than a place to buy furniture.

Many Special Issues Get Nod From Voters

With absentee and disabled ballots still to be counted, special issues voted on in Tuesday's election seem to have fared fairly well.

Of 46 separate issues decided by voters, 34 appeared to be winning Wednesday as primary election ballots were counted throughout the state.

Boone County voters approved 1,384 to 1,199 a $500,000 bond issue to build a new county courthouse. The issue was previously defeated last July.

In Merrick County, a $540,000 bond issue was passed 1,236 to 1,009 for an extended-care wing to the Litzenberg Memorial Hospital at Central City.

A $250,000 bond for a 20-bed addition to Hillcrest Nursing Home at McCook was voted in by Red Willow County voters, 2,164 to 662.

By a narrow margin of 1,865 to 2,003, York County voters defeated a $200,000 bond for a new county courthouse.

In other county-wide issues, Clay County voters approved 1,619 to 855 a proposal to set up a county health department, while Richardson County turned down a similar issue, by a vote of 1,519 to 2,398.

Sarpy County voters approved 5,503 to 2,844 a proposal whereby the county may sell four lots of land in downtown Papillion, where the old courthouse now stands. According to the county clerk's office, Sarpy County is building a new courthouse nearby.

By a close margin, Harlan County residents voted to establish a county employes retirement plan. However, the 761 to 740 vote may change once absentee and disabled ballots have been counted.

Scotts Bluff County voters passed a proposal to auction land owned by the county and adjoining Scotts Bluff County airport, 4,146 to 1,896.

In municipal elections across the state Tuesday, liquor-by-the-drink appears to have been the most common issue voters decided.

Of 15 towns voting on liquor-by-the-drink, 10 passed the proposal. They include Amherst, Bayard, Carleton, Cedar Creek, Cortland, Filley, Hardy, Hubbell, Pleasant Dale and Wausa.

The proposal was voted down in Loup City, Mitchell, Polk, Stratton and Stromsburg.

Peru voters approved the sale of packaged liquor.

In Grand Island, voters repealed an ordinance which had limited liquor licenses in relation to population.

In other special-issue balloting, Papillion school district voters defeated 798 to 1,683 a proposal to operate their schools year-round, as permitted by a new state law.

In Richardson County, Dawson-Verdon voters approved 251 to 181 a $450,000 school bond issue for a new gym and shop for Dawson-Verdon schools.

North Platte voters passed a $283,000 bond issue for a swimming pool and recreation center, by a vote of 2,768 to 1,548.

A special bond issue for $150,000 to improve the Tilden city water system was approved by voters 284 to 105.

Clarks voters passed a $50,000 bond issue for construction of a fire station and Ashland residents approved purchase of land as the site of a new fire station.

Minden balloters approved a $70,000 bond to buy land to erect a storage building for city equipment.

A $149,000 bond for school additions was defeated in St. Paul, 549 to 782.

Ord voters defeated a $90,000 bond issue for an addition to the Ord city library and Elmwood turned down a proposed ordinance to finance upkeep and future construction for the Elmwood Library.

At Hildreth, voters turned down a proposal to purchase a public building for social, literary and recreational purposes.

Three communities voted to adopt a school budget higher than state limitations. They include York County School District No. 54 at Gresham, Scotts Bluff County School District No. 1 at Lyman and Rosalie School.

Broken Bow voters defeated a school reorganization proposal, 581 to 884.

A proposal to enteracontract with Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co. was passed 937 to 149 at Sidney.

Both Dix and Palmer approved dog leash laws.

Peru — Two Peru State College graduates, Fritz Stehlik of Nebraska City and Barry Reed of Henry, Ill., were honored with Peru Achievement Foundation awards during commencement ceremonies. Stehlik, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Stahlik of Nebraska City, was selected by the faculty after nominations from each academic division on the basis of outstanding service to Peru State. Reed, a 10th round draft choice of the Minnesota Vikings professional football club, led the Peru State Bobcat rushing and this past season topped total offense and scoring.

UNO Construction Ahead Of Schedule

Omaha (AP) — The last steel beam will be placed in the $3.7 million classroom-office building during a ceremony May 24 at the University of Nebraska at Omaha. UNO officials said the five-story structure, now 35% complete, may open in December. That would be nearly a year ahead of the original construction timetable.

Ali-Foreman Fight In September

. . . Mysterious Zaire Site

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali promised to unveil a new punch — the "ghetto whopper" — to win back the world heavyweight boxing championship from George Foreman in their projected $30 million Fight of the Ages next September in remote, mysterious Zaire.

The time was formally set Wednesday as 3 a. m., Sept. 25, Zaire time, or 10 p. m., EDT, Sept. 24, when it will be beamed to what promoters say will be a record 400 outlets and 2.75 million viewers in the United States and Canada alone.

Each fighter has been guaranteed $5 million, biggest payoff in ring history.

Ali, who showed up at a pre-noon news conference to give a 35-minute spiel of bombast and poetry, was asked how he would feel going into the ring three hours after midnight.

"I got me a new punch," he explained. "I borrowed it from my old friend, Kid Gavilan, who will be working out with me. He called it the 'bolo punch.' I renamed it the 'ghetto whopper.'

"At 3 a.m. is the time the bars are all letting out in the ghettos. That's when the brothers start arguing about their women and who shot the dice last. That's when they start throwing them getto punches."

Ali called Gavilan to the center of the stage to demonstrate the looping uppercut.

Dapper in a dark suit and full of vim and vinegar, the 32-year-old Ali chided Foreman for failing to appear. Officials said the champion's absence was due to a mixup in communications.

"I will win and bring punctuality back to boxing," the 32-year-old former champion said. "Foreman plays a cat and mouse game like a little child. We will have no more duckin' and dodgin'. That kills boxing."

Ali called Foreman a "dirty" fighter, insisting the champ belted Joe Frazier illegally, hit King Roman when he was down and twice hit Ken Norton when the latter was helpless against the ropes.

"There will be no dirty fighting in Zaire," Muhammad shouted. "They are my brothers down there. There will be no George Foremans waving little flags, just people yelling 'Ali! Ali! Ali!'"

Ali scoffed at the suggestion that Foreman's brutal hitting power would be too much for him.

"George hits very hard," Ali said snidely. "He hits so hard he had to knock Frazier down six times, Roman twice and Norton three times. Remember when a man would swing once — pow! — and then there would be a call for the smelling salts.

"Foreman just pushes hard. I won't be like Frazier and Norton. I won't step in and let him hit me. I will dance and move, and then we will see how long Foreman can last.

"He hasn't gone past four rounds since May 1971. I want to see how he does when the timer says, 'round five,' 'round seven,' 'round 10.'

"I am not like the pork eaters I can go 24 rounds, if necessary."

McDonald May Better Steeplechase Record

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Eight athletes entered in the 67th annual Big Eight track and field championships here Friday and Saturday have turned in performances better than all-time conference outdoor meet records

Yet, only one record appeared certain to be broken when competition begins at 1:30 p.m. Friday on Nebraska's Ed Weir Track.

Kent McDonald of Kansas, a junior from Lawrence, Kan., has run his specialty, the 3,000-meter steeplechase, 22 2 seconds faster than his record-setting pace of last year, the first season for the event in the Big Eight meet.

Colorado senior James Nyumutei, who is from Accra, Ghana, set an all-time best for a conference triple jumper during the season with a leap of 53 feet, 6½ inches. That's 2-8½ better than the meet mark set in 1968 by Nebraska's Lennox Burgher.

Three performances better than the records were wind-aided. These include Mark Lutz of Kansas in the 100 and 220, Vance Roland of Kansas State in the high hurdles, and Danny Seay of Kansas in the long jump.

Others who have record chances are Bob Unger of Nebraska in the mile, Dave Anderson of Kansas in the three-mile, and the Kansas State mile relay team. The relay mark, however, might not go because of the questionable status of injured Mike Lee.

Near-record performances have been posted by the Kansas 440-yard relay team, discus thrower Jerry Hannan of Nebraska, high jumper Bill Kankunis of Colorado, and pole vaulter Terry Porter of Kansas, last year's outstanding performer in the Big Eight meet.

Tickets for the meet still are available at the NU ticket office in the south end of the stadium.

Here are the records the athletes will be trying to beat

100 — 09 3 by Charlie Green, Nebraska, 1966, and Mel Gray, Missouri, 1970
220 — .20 4 by Keith Gardner, Nebraska, 1958, Mel Gray, Missouri, 1970, and Dennis Schultz, Oklahoma State, 1972.
440 — 46 9 by Dave Crook, Nebraska, 1966
880 — 1 47 7 by John Perry, Oklahoma State, 1966
Mile — 4.00 9 by Conrad Nightingale, Kansas State, 1966
Steeplechase — 9 02.8 by Kent McDonald, Kansas, 1973.
3-mile — 13:46 8 by Dennis McGuire, Iowa State, 1970.
440 Intermediate Hurdles — 49 8 by Jim Bolding, Oklahoma State, 1972.
High Hurdles — :13 7 by Marcus Walker, Colorado, 1970
Mile Relay — 3:08 6 by Nebraska, 1970.
440-Relay — .39 8 by Colorado, 1972

Nebraska City Wins District

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

If there's a stigma attached to being No. 4 on a 4-man golf team, Nebraska City's Art McDaniel erased it Wednesday afternoon at Holmes Golf Course.

McDaniel, a 6-5, 185-pound senior, relied on a hot putting game to take medalist honors and lead his Nebraska City teammates to the Class B-1 district golf championship.

"He's got to be the best No. 4 player in the state," Nebraska City golf coach Jim Brockhaus enthused after McDaniel edged Auburn's talented Dru Lammle for medalist.

McDaniel, the starting center on the Pioneers' 17-4 basketball team last winter, credited his coach for helping him record a 37-40—77.

"Coach Brockhaus changed my putting stance right before the Twin Rivers tournament last week," related McDaniel. "I only 3-putted once today and sank a couple of 30-footers."

One of the 30-foot putts salvaged a bogey for McDaniel after he had hit into two trees and laced a wedge shot over the green. He registered one birdie — one No. 8 and his first round featured eight consecutive 4's after an opening-hole par 5.

Jon Sanchez, Nebraska City's season-long leader, finished fourth after losing a playoff to Wahoo's Mark Simmerman. Tom Gangel, the Pioneers' season-long No. 3 player, finished sixth to give Nebraska City three of the top six finishers.

Greg Yost finished out of the top 10, but has been Nebraska City's No. 2 player throughout the season, creating a situation that Brockhaus calls consistently good, but pleasantly unpredictable.

His Pioneers won 10 of the 11 duals or triangulars in which they competed this season and also captured the Tri-County Invitational at Beatrice and the Twin Rivers Conference at Nebraska City.

Auburn's Lammle, who won the Twin Rivers tourney with a sizzling 69, noted that "if it isn't one Nebraska City golfer out after me, it's another."

Lammle, who averaged 37.1 strokes per 9-hole round throughout the season, entered district competition having been one under par in his previous six 18-hole rounds.

He reached 15 of the 18 greens Wednesday in line to putt for birdies, but registered only two and endured a 42 on the second nine in windy weather to finish one stroke behind McDaniel.

Lammle, however, qualifies for next Friday's state Class B golf tournament at Indian Trails Golf Club in Beemer. The top five individuals and top three district teams — Nebraska City, Wahoo and Syracuse — qualify for the event.

Two-Hitter For Bahnsen

By The Associated Press

Chicago's Stan Bahnsen lost his perfect game in the eighth inning, but the White Sox still won Cincinnati's Roger Nelson lost his no-hitter in the eighth, but the Reds also won.

The spectacular pitching Wednesday in the American and Natonal Leagues highlighted a flurry of tightly contested baseball games.

Bahnsen, finished with a two-hitter for a 1-0 Chicago victory over the Minnesota Twins Bahnsen, a former Husker player, is 5-2.

He gave up a two-out line single to left-center field by Bobby Darwin in the eighth inning to spoil the perfect game.

Nelson hurled no-hit ball for seven innings and combined with Pedro Borbon on a two-hitter to give the Reds a 4-3 victory against the San Francisco Giants.

Bobby Bonds broke up the no-hitter by Nelson, 2-3, with a two-run homer in the eighth inning.

In other games, the Boston Red Sox beat the Cleveland Indians 7-4, the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Milwaukee Brewers 6-5, the Texas Rangers defeated the California Angels 6-1, the Detroit Tigers edged the New York Yankees 6-5, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Chicago Cubs 3-2, the Montreal Expos beat the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4, and the St. Louis Cards bombed the New York Mets 10-1.

The Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Houston Astros 11-7 in the first game of a West Coast twi-night doubleheader and the San Diego Padres hosted the Atlanta Braves in a later contest.

Boston triumphed on home runs by Rico Petrocelli, a two-run shot, Bernie Carbo, a three-run blast, and Carlton Fisk, a solo clout.

Baltimore snapped Milwaukee's five-game winning streak as Earl Williams and Tommy Davis drove in two runs apiece for the Orioles. A single by Davis in the fourth inning scored the winning run.

Alex Johnson knocked in four runs, leading the Texas Rangers their win. David Clyde, 3-0, gave up nine hits, but outdueled Nolan Ryan, 4-4.

Detroit's Al Kaline drew a bases loaded walk in the eighth inning off Yankee reliever Sparky Lyle for the winning run. Earlier, Willie Horton smacked a two-run homer and a run-scoring single to tie the game for the Tigers.

Pittsburgh triumphed when Chicago's Bill Bonham's tossed a 14th-inning bases-loaded wild pitch that allowed Richie Zisk to race home with the winning run.

After hitting a two-run triple and scoring in the first inning, Ken Singleton broke the 4-4 tie in the ninth with a run-scoring single to give Montreal the win

Ted Simmons, who slugged his first two home runs of the season, led the St. Louis attack. Lynn McGlothen, 5-1, hurled a six-hitter for the win.

The Dodgers used a sevenrun outburst in the fifth inning to beat the Astros in the opener. Bill Buckner and Bill Russell singled home two runs apiece during the outburst.

Nicklaus At Colonial On PGA Direct Order

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus came to the Colonial National Tournament this week only because he was ordered to by the PGA.

But he is here, along with every major name in golf, to compete in the tour's first "designated tournament" —a $250,000 affair that opens Thursday over the traditionally tough, par-70 Colonial Country Club course.

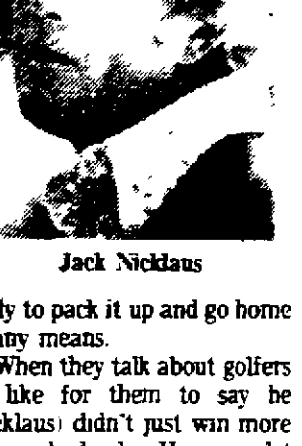

Nicklaus feels the designated tournament concept has certain merits.

But for himself, that's a different matter, and in a frank discussion before the tournament's opening round, Nicklaus indicated that when golf became work for him instead of pleasure he would be through with tournament compeition.

At the same time, however, he said he hoped to be around for some time.

"I have the same goal as Arnold (Palmer), Ben (Hogan) and Sam (Snead)," Nicklaus said "I'd like to set myself apart from the other golfers. I know this is a state of mind sort of thing.

"I know I've won more major tournaments (14) than anybody else. But I feel I have the ability to win a lot more. At 34 I'm not ready to pack it up and go home by any means.

Jack Nicklaus

"When they talk about golfers I'd like for them to say he (Nicklaus) didn't just win more than anybody else. He won a lot more. I may not win another major tournament. But it won't be for the lack of trying."

There will be three designated tournaments this year The tour's top golfers must be present or face an as yet unspecified punishment Nicklaus is not particularly pleased at being told where he must play, and next year the PGA could increase the number of designated tournaments to as many as 10

What would Nicklaus do then?

"I really don't know," he said "I've always said that I would play golf as long as I can compete and as long as I enjoy it. If I ceased to enjoy it I would probably quit.

"Last fall I arranged my schedule so that I would be home every time the Miami Dolphins played a home game And I like to be home to see my kids play baseball or basketball

"The idea (designated tournament) they are trying to create is fine. But if you have a good course, and $250,000 in prize money and a good time of year to play, why does a tournament need to be designated? Everyone should want to play there anyway."

This will be Nicklaus' first appearance at Colonial since 1970 and his first competition since the Tournament of Champions, which he said was one of his worst performances in years

Nicklaus does not rate as one of the favorites since he admits his game is not where he would like it. Among those who are expected to do well, however, are the top two money winners this year —five-tournament winner Johnny Miller and two-time winner Buddy Allin.

Also given a good chance is Tom Weiskopf, who won here last year to start his amazing summer streak that netted him five tournament victories including the British Open.

Opperman Hits Indy Wall Twice

Indianapolis, Ind. (UPI) — Rookie Jan Opperman of Beaver Crossing, Neb., escaped injury Wednesday when his racer spun in the No 2 turn and bumped the wall twice in the seventh mishap in practice for the 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Damage to the car was not considered extensive

Track officials said Opperman's car first spun halfway around into the infield grass, then came back onto the track and hit the wall.

The machine then spun halfway around again and clipped the wall the second time.

The crash came as 32 cars took to the 2½-mile oval in preparation for the second day of time trials on Saturday.

Huskers Clobber Cowboys

Stillwater (AP) — Nebraska pounded out 15 hits against six Oklahoma State University pitchers to pin the Cowboys with a 9-3 baseball defeat Wednesday and dash OSU's hopes of a first-division finish in the Big Eight.

OSU, which finished its season 24-17, including 9-12 in the conference, could have tied Colorado for fourth with a victory.

Nebraska concluded its campaign 13-27 with a 4-16 league mark

The Huskers exploded for four runs in the first inning against Greg Smith and David Fisher to ice things early

Dennis O'Doherty made sure the lead stood up as he allowed only three hits for seven innings while giving up one unearned run.

Paul Haas and Bill Jadlowski opened Nebraska's first inning with singles and scored on a triple to left center by Norm Glismann.

Glismann scored on a wild pitch before Doak Fowler singled, stole second and rode home on a base hit by Sam Sharpe.

OSU scored its first run in the third, but the Huskers came back with three in the fourth to build an insurmountable 7-1 lead

Becker Pondering More Ak Improvements

Looking Ahead

Omaha — Just because Dick Becker isn't 100% satisfied with this year's Ak-Sar-Ben meeting, don't think that it's anything drastic. In fact, it's a problem that every major race track in the country wishes it had.

"We created a lot of new mutuel windows in the east concourse and more than 1,000 new grandstand seats down there," said Ak-Sar-Ben's general manager. "But they aren't being used as much as we'd like. So we're contemplating a few new things to help that area."

He mentioned the possibility of installing another result board at the east end of main tote board in the infield. Most major tracks have two result boards at each end of the main board and undoubtedly it would give patrons in those east sections a better view.

Dick Becker

Becker also said that Ak-Sar-Ben was considering installing additional television monitors in the clubhouse. While the daily aveage per capita bet is $71 for the general plant, it has soared to between $120-150 in the clubhouse area.

So despite Becker's "problem" in the east area, the mutuel handle figures for the first 10 days of the 55-day meeting are most impressive. While last year's average thus far was $876,821 it is now $992,-983 . . . just $7,017 from the $1 million per day average that Ak-Sar-Ben hopes to achieve this year.

"We're really not up all that many people from last year," Becker noted. "One reason might be that we've had such gorgeous weather so far (just one non-fast track). Sometimes that isn't always good for us. The farmers can stay out in the fields and a lot of people go play golf or something else when the weather is nice."

Three-Way Machines

One change which has gone virtually unnoticed, but may be the biggest factor in Ak-Sar-Ben's increased handle is 52 three-way machines for $5, $10 and $50 windows.

The machine enables bettors to purchase win, place and show tickets at one booth. In past years, Ak-Sar-Ben made limited use of them, but on most occasions, patrons had to stand in one line to obtain win tickets and then stand in another line to obtain place and/or show tickets.

"That's helped our handle considerably this year," Becker said. "A lot of people didn't like standing in two lines and a lot of times they got shut out. We had a few of those machines last year, but we have a lot more and I think that's a big reason for our gains in handle.

"We did a lot of things aimed at the public this year . . . the new video tape film patrol . . . the color television on the closed circuit and in the Coliseum . . . the 48-hour entries . . . a new phot finish man . . . the new clubhouse," he said. "This is probably the biggest year for changes we've had here since 1966 when we remodeled the Coliseum, built Ak-Sar-Ben Hall and put in the black and white screen in the Coliseum."

The only major problem in the infant stages of the Omaha meeting this year was the poor quality of the color in the 30 x 30 television screen in the Coliseum during the first few days. That difficulty was corrected last week and now the Coliseum color is everything that Ak-Sar-Ben hoped it would be.

But perhaps the best indication of Ak-Sar-Ben's new look is related by Becker in a conversation he had recently with Jack Ven Berg. Van Berg, who has won the last 15 Ak-Sar-Ben trainers' titles, is known nationally and races his stock at every major track in the United States.

"Van Berg told me that our race track has the best surface of any track in the United States," Becker said. "That's pretty good coming from someone who races as many places as he does."

It's All Outdoors

By Tom Vint
Outdoor Editor

Familiar Face . . . Unfamiliar Place

If the column heading looks familiar, thanks. You must have seen it before. For the past year and a half, I've been the Lincoln Evening Journal and Sunday Journal and Star outdoor writer.

Starting today, "It's All Outdoors" will be a regular Thursday feature in the Lincoln Morning Star in addition to the Journal.

We're hoping the new dual role of one outdoor writer for both papers will benefit all.

I'll be writing about the hunting, the fishing, the camping, local news, state news, national news and just about anything else touching the massive home plate of the great outdoors.

So much for saying what I'm gonna be doing. On with it.

Outdoorsmen looking for something to do this weekend have several prime targets: (1) the Lincoln Gun Club hosts the Eastern Nebraska Zone Shoot, (2) the Holmes Lake Marina hosts the annual Midwest Canoe Association Canoe and Paddle Clinic, (3) the Hawkeye Brittany Club is running a Friday through Sunday dog trial in Cedar County, (4) the Devils Nest 55th annual trail ride will be held, and (5) the crappie are hitting at Conestoga Lake near Denton.

Morrissey Will Defend Title

Omahan B. E. Morrissey will be back Saturday and Sunday to defend his Eastern Nebraska Zone championship. Morrissey outshot Lincolnite Frank Hoppe, Omaha's John Voss and Jim Beck, and Ashland's John Storm, all among the nation's top trap shooters last year.

Morrissey, Beck, Hoppe, Alred Koso and Les Rucksdaeschel qualified last year as Eastern Zone team members, then went on to take the state zone team championship. Morrissey was the zone champion of champions.

Voss was the 1973 state singles and open doubles champion, Hoppe won the state doubles title, and Storm took the director's shoot title. Some pretty fine marksmen will be on hand when shooting begins at 9:30 a.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. Sunday.

The State Trap Shoot will be June 6-9 on the state grounds at Doniphan. This year will mark the 25th anniversary of the grounds.

Canoe And Paddle Clinic Set

The Holmes Lake Canoe and Paddle Clinic begins Saturday at 2 p.m. Instruction in canoeing, paddling and safety technique will be given by Midwest Canoe members. The program will include water rescue instruction and different manuevers on the water with canoes.

The Hawkeye Brittany Club will set up trial grounds three miles west and one mile south of Hartington. Count on an early morning start from Lincoln to see the dogs work.

The 55th annual Devils Nest trail ride is set for Sunday with rides beginning at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. The Diamond 6 Ranch, near the Gavins Point Dam in northeast Nebraska, will be the starting point. The ranch is approximately nine miles west of state route 121 on recreation road E.

And, if fishing is your fancy, the Salt Valley crappie are being very cooperative. The herds of anglers lined up on the Conestoga Lake dam on weekends means only one thing. The crappie are hitting.

Local anglers at Branched Oak and Pawnee lakes have also been filling the stringers with the tasty panfish. It's not much of a drive to any of those three lakes. The dams and the backwaters are the most productive spots on all of the lakes, with crappie minnows or crappie jigs the best crappie catchers.

Take your pick. There's a little bit of everything on the outdoor calendar this weekend.

Aeros Swamp Cougars, 6-1

CHICAGO (AP) — Andre Hinse scored twice and the Houston Aeros swamped the Chicago Cougars 6-1 Wednesday night to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven World Hockey Association Finals.

Houston Goalie Don McLeod lost his shutout when Chicago's Frankie Rochon scored with 16 seconds to play.

The Aeros, who finished first in the Western Division, now go to Houston for games Friday and Sunday. If they fail to sweep in four straight, they'll have another chance to lock up the title at home next Monday night.

The Cougars, in two seasons, have failed to win in Sam Houston Colliseum.

Royals Nip 89ers, 4-3

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Omaha hurler Bob McClure survived a shaky eight inning, and got some need help from reliever Jim Foor, as the Royals downed Oklahoma City 4-3 in American Association action Wednesday night.

McClure, a lefthander up from the rookie league, picked up his first win in three decisions. He held the 89ers to just five hits, and struck out nine in 8 1-3 innings of work.

Losing pitcher Bob Rauch wild-pitched in Omaha's first run in the third inning. Royal first baseman Frank Ortenzio doubled in the sixth, then scored on a single by Jose Martinez. Omaha came up with two more in the seventh to make it 4-0.

The 89ers chipped at the lead in the eighth, combining three hits off McClure for one run. Another scored on an error, and a third on an infield out.

McClure gave up another hit in the ninth, prompting Manager Harry Malmberg to call in Foor, who nailed down the win.

CHATEAU DE JAVERNAND BEAUJOLAIS

Beaujolais is the most popular of all French wines and is the imported wine most frequently requested by American wine buyers. It is a wine-both red and white-made from the Gamay grape and lends itself to almost any meat dish, pasta or sharp cheese. Red Beaujolais is one of the few wines which may be slightly chilled before serving. Tasters sometimes say that they detect the taste or scent of peaches or apricots or even rose in the wine. But whatever the individual finds he may be assured that he is enjoying a fruity and flowery wine with a freshness and distinction seldom found in such lo-priced wines. MITCH TAVLIN-the Wine Merchant and Importer-heartily recommends CHATEAU De JAVERNAND-a Beaujolais Superiore at $1.45 per fifth-and offered at a substantial discount in case lots. BEaujolais Chateau De Javernand is an Estate Bottled wine which is in reach of even the most modest budget and is guaranteed to please you completely-or your entire purchase price will be refunded. MITCH TAVLIN is all you need to know about wine and carries a selection of fine wines which is the envy of every wine dealer in America. Do all of your wine and spirits shopping at MITCH TAVLINS—you can't do better anywhere else.

Sierra Club Urges Steps Before Plant Construction

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Sierra Club attorneys Wednesday in a written brief submitted to the State Department of Environmental Control (DEC) said it is highly unlikely Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) would be willing to shut down temporarily the Gerald Gentleman Power Station if it proves to be an air pollution hazard

Consequently, they argued safeguards should be made prior to construction to prevent the dilemma from arising

The Sierra Club is seeking to get NPPD to install "scrubbers" to remove sulfur dioxide from the 650-megawatt plant's stack gases. NPPD has countered that the plant will burn low-sulfur coal and hence will not violate air pollution standards.

Hearings have been held since March to determine whether the DEC should issue a license for the plant to operate as it is currently designed

The Sierra Club has contended NPPD's contract with the Atlantic-Richfield Co. specifying delivery of low-sulfur coal is insufficient evidence to indicate that plant will not violate air standards

"It is naive to believe that tens of millions of dollars invested (in the plant) together with the reliance placed upon it by the entire grid system of NPPD, will not produce an overwhelming temptation to keep the facility operating regardless of threats to ambient air quality," they said

Elsewhere in the 20-page brief they said, "It is clear from the evidence that . . . operation of the Gerald Gentleman Power Station will lead to significant deterioration of the presently clean air in the (Sutherland) vicinity . . .

"(NPPD) must establish by a preponderance of evidence that it will not cause significant deterioration of existing ambient air quality by operation of (the plant) (NPPD) has failed to meet this burden, in fact, the evidence establishes that significant deterioration will occur posing a grave threat to vegetation over a substantial area of west-central Nebraska"

A scrubber, they said, would solve the air pollution dilemma NPPD maintains scrubbers are expensive, inefficient and prone to mechanical failures

NPPD's written brief will be submitted Thursday. DEC officials said

Final oral arguments will be heard May 29 Following that, the hearing officer will make a recommendation to the DEC director, who will make the final decision

Chadron Professor Contesting Dismissal

A tenured language professor from Chadron State College is fighting a decision to dismiss him from the faculty and drop languages from curriculum

The State College Board of Trustees has scheduled a special hearing on Dudley H. Chase's appeal fro May 24 in the Nebraska State Education Association building.

Chase, who as Chadron's only language professor taught German and Spanish for approximately eight years, will be terminated at the end of this school year by order of the Chadron administration and the trustees

Dr. Edwin Nelson, executive secretary for the trustees said a Chadron faculty committee upheld the administration's decision following a hearing

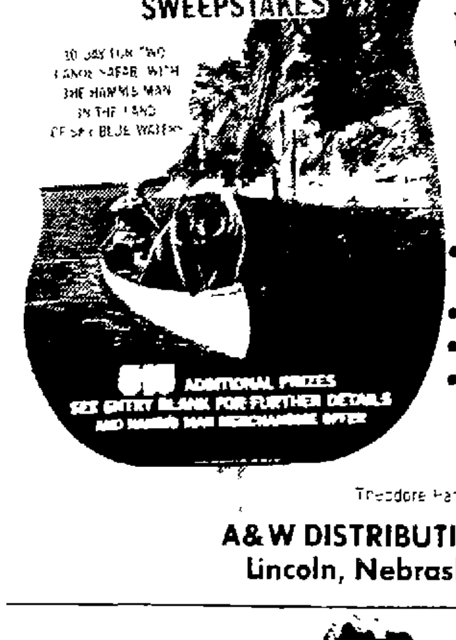

Nelson said the foreign language department was not "a viable program" since only about 30 students enrolled in the courses each year

Nelson acknowledged that many contend languages are necessary for an adequate curriculum, but he said, "When the students don't enroll, it gets pretty expensive."

Nelson said he had no comment on recent reservations expressed by the president of the Nebraska chapter of the American Association of University Professors about the trustees' tenure policies.

The trustees recently lifted a one-year moratorium on tenure and extended the probationary period before a professor can become tenured from four to seven years

The professors were concerned about the retroactive effect the new policy would have on teachers without tenure who came to the colleges expecting tenure within four years

TV Auction Tops Goal Of $30,000

A last minute sale made on a late donation after the auction went off the air early Wednesday morning brought the Nebraskans for Public Television $15 over their goal of $30,000 in the first statewide public television held on the Nebraska ETV network

The efforts of more than 600 volunteers and the donations of hundreds of merchants and individuals from all over the state made the three nights of on-air auction for the benefit of Nebraska ETV possible

As the auction closed at 3 a m Wednesday, NETV general manager Jack McBride noted that while public television auctions are the pattern in the U.S. for such stations to gain financial support, the Nebraska ETV network auction was the first ever to be held statewide

He expressed the appreciation of the Nebraska Educational Television Commission and the University of Nebraska channel, KUON, for the many volunteer hours contributed in support of the auction effort — "another example of the fact that the network belongs to the citizens of Nebraska"

The auction item bringing the highest bid of $750 was a group of Mari Sandoz books, including an autographed manuscript page from her book, "The Story Catcher" Harry Farnham of Elkhorn was the successful bidder

Larry Wachtel at Bache & Co noted that institutional investors, who account for an estimated 75 per cent of the activity in stocks, were sitting and waiting with large amounts of their funds in short-term, fixed-income investments, now yielding in the 10 to 11 per cent range

Without their participation, he said, "the market simply has no point of view, no conviction in either direction"

Pennzoil was the Big Board's most-active issue, losing 2¾ after a delayed opening. The Federal Power Commission said it was investigating the company's spinoff of United Gas Pipeline Co a few weeks ago.

Lamb Prices Hit Record High Levels

Omaha, Neb (AP) — Slaughter lambs reached record high levels on the livestock market in Omaha Wednesday

Both new crop spring lambs and old crops move to the 50 00 level as springers were 75 cents up and old crops 3 50 over Monday. The tickets were an all-time high for the Omaha market

Normally, prices paid in the sheep and lamb division are fairly well correlated with the activity of the cattle and hog markets

However, with lamb and sheep inventories at the lowest levels since records were started by the USDA, some producers have been claiming that the fairly stable demand for lamb and mutton would enable the industry to establish a separate pattern

Renewed interest in wool as a fabric material has prompted sharply higher prices for the raw product compared to returns a couple of years ago

Hog prices in Omaha dropped 50-1.50 with many sales fully 1 00-1 25 lower

A noticeable improvement in quality offering was offset by heavier weights among the slaughter steers traded. Prices were weak to 25 lower, instances down 50 Heifers managed fully steady prices.

Whelan Won 79 Counties, 54% Of Demo Vote

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Hastings attorney Gerald Whelan, Gov. J. James Exon's chosen and now-nominated teammate, won 79 of Nebraska's 93 counties in sweeping to an unexpectedly easy Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

With election returns nearly final Wednesday, Whelan had picked up almost 54% of the vote in turning back the challenge of three state senators.

In launching his own political career, the 49-year-old former president of the State Board of Education apparently ended that of the legendary Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff.

Carpenter finished a poor second with 24% of the vote, winning 10 counties, including nine of the 11 far western counties which compose Nebraska's Panhandle.

Whelan captured every populous county except Scotts Bluff, Carpenter's home ground.

Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton finished a distant third, with about 14% of the vote and four northeast Nebraska counties near his home base of Crofton.

Fourth place belonged to Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue, with 6% of the vote.

The late James LaHood of Omaha, whose name remained on the ballot after his death, chalked up 1½% of the Democratic count.

On the Republican side, the dimensions of Anne Batchelder's victory over former State Sen. William Wylie for the GOP nod for lieutenant governor only became apparent with Wednesday's late count.

Mrs. Batchelder, 54, a wealthly former Republican national committeewoman and wife of former State Sen. Clifton Batchelder, grabbed 88 counties in her sweep past Wylie.

Wylie was able to win only five counties in northeast Nebraska near his Elgin home, although he fought Mrs. Batchelder to a near even contest in Lancaster County.

Won 59%

Mrs. Batchelder finished with more than 59% of the vote, gaining a place on the Republican general election team with Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, the unopposed gubernatorial nominee.

Mrs. Batchelder was GOP committeewoman from 1964 to 1970, when she resigned to support her husband in his Republican primary challenge to former Gov. Norbert Tiemann. Batchelder lost the contest by a narrow margin, but crippled Tiemann for what proved to be a losing general election effort against the Democratic nominee, J. James Exon.

Now Mrs. Batchelder will be joining Marvel in an autumn showdown with Exon and Whelan.

The governor soared to an 87% vote total in turning back Lyman Mayor Richard Schmitz in the one-sided Democratic gubernatorial contest.

Meanwhile, in the only statewide contest which remained unresolved until Wednesday's count, former State Treasurer Richard Larsen of Omaha picked off the Democratic nomination for state auditor.

Larsen, 51, a construction steward, turned back Lincoln accountant William "Pat" Daugherty and Omaha State Sen. David Stahmer.

Larsen, then an Omaha bartender, pulled off a stunning upset in 1958 to win election as state treasurer and served one term in the office.

Incumbent Auditor Ray A. C. Johnson won the Republican nomination with ease.

Former Democratic Gov. Frank Morrison, now Douglas County public defender, will meet Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas, the Republican nominee, in the November showdown for attorney general.

Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh, a Republican, will meet Democrat Kurt Rasmussen for the post of state treasurer.

And Secretary of State Allen Beermann will duel with Democratic challenger Catherine Dahlquist in the general election.

Big Margins

Whelan's victory was constructed with hefty margins in most of Nebraska's more populous counties.

In Douglas County, where Carpenter had hoped to gather a winning margin, Whelan's vote soared past 20,000. Carpenter trailed far behind with fewer than 8,000 votes.

In Lancaster County, Whelan neared the 7,000 mark, while Carpenter's total peaked at less than 3,000.

Whelan stomped to victory in his home county of Adams, and grabbed Buffalo, Dodge, Gage, Hall, Lincoln, Saline, Sarpy, Saunders, Seward — all crucial to Democratic hopes — by comfortable margins.

Carpenter buried all opponents in Scotts Bluff, winning nearly 80% of the votes.

Only 1 Senator Fails To Lead List

All 14 incumbent state senators seeking re-election this year were nominated in Tuesday's primary election.

And only one — Sen. Walter Epke of York — failed to finish in the leading position in his district.

Epke, 57, York livestock auction market owner, farmer and livestock feeder, ran second to Douglas Bereuter, 34, a Utica governmental affairs consultant, in the 24th District.

Epke was elected to the Unicameral in 1970 and is completing his first term.

Bereuter headed the state office of planning and programming in the Tiemann administration.

Finishing out of the money, in third place, was Dorris Marxhausen, 41, a Seward homemaker and newspaper columnist.

Elsewhere, in 13 districts, incumbents led the way.

Included were Lincoln Sens Roland Luedtke, Wally Barnett Jr., and Harold Simpson.

Luedtke, 50, a Lincoln attorney, first elected to the Legislature in 1966, will be opposed in November by Marge Schlitt, a 39-year-old teacher's aide.

Barnett, 43, a Lincoln salesman who was first elected in 1970, will be challenged by James Kubert, 30, a homebuilder and real estate salesman.

Challengers Demos

Although legislative races are non-partisan, the general election run-off will pit Republican incumbents against Democratic challengers in those two districts.

In the third Lincoln district, Sen. Harold Simpson, 47, a milling and elevator company employe, won nomination without opposition. He has served in the Legislature since 1967.

Omaha Sens. Glenn Goodrich, Harold Moylan and John Savage also led the field in their districts.

Outstate leaders included Sens. Calvin Carsten of Avoca, Blair Richendifer of Walthill, W. H. Hasebroock of West Point, Richard Maresh of Milligan, Maurice Kremer of Aurora, Richard Lewis of Holbrook and John DeCamp of Neligh.

Hasebroock's general election opponent in the 18th District will be a former clerk of the legislature, Hugo Srb.

One Councilman Wins

In Omaha, a former city councilman, Warren Swigart won nomination for the Eighth District seat being vacated by Sen. Dave Stahmer.

But former Omaha City Councilman Fred Jacobberger didn't fare so well, losing his bid for nomination to the 12th District seat which will be abandoned by Speaker Richard Proud.

The 12th District nominees are Ralston City Councilman Jerry Koch, a legislative lobbyist for Omaha surburban schools, and Emmajean Wupper, past president of the League of Women Voters of Nebraska.

Another Omaha race, the Fourth District contest for the post now held by Sen. Richard Fellman, will pit two Omaha executives against one another in what could be November's most expensive legislative duel.

The nominees are Larry Stoney, an executive at Mutual of Omaha, and Carlin Whitesell, an executive of the Peter Kiewit Company.

In the 42nd District, former Republican State Chairman Lorraine Orr of North Platte won nomination, but finished second to Myron Rumery, a retired staff member at the University of Nebraska experiment station.

That seat is being vacated by Sen. J. James Waldron of North Platte, an unsuccessful congressional candidate.

Leaving the Legislature, in addition to Stahmer, Proud, Fellman and Waldron, are Duke Snyder of Omaha, Herb Nore of Genoa, Fred Carstens of Beatrice, Gerald Stromer of Kearney, Ramey Whitney of Chappell and Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff.

Four of those senators sought nomination to other state or national offices in Tuesday's election — and all failed.

Waldron finished fourth in the Third District Republican congressional race; Stromer finished third.

Stahmer ran third in the Democratic contest for state auditor, and Carpenter ran second in the Democratic derby for lieutenant governor.

He'll Be A Spectator Now

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

After 42 years in the game, Terry Carpenter said Wednesday he's hanging it up.

"I've had it," the 74-year-old living legend of Nebraska politics said in a telephone interview.

"I'm not unhappy about it. I know some people don't believe that, but I mean it.

"It had to come sometime.

"Besides, the Legislature eventually got to be too much for me. I used to sit in that hotel room at night, and wonder what the heck I was doing there.

"But I thought I was helping people, and it made me feel better."

Carpenter gave up his seat in the Legislature for a chance to move into the lieutenant governor's office and, eventually, perhaps, into the governorship itself.

But Democratic voters turned down the Scottsbluff lawmaker's bid for the lieutenant governor nomination and Carpenter, as he promised, promptly resigned from the Unicameral.

"I sent him (Governor Exon) the letter of resignation today," he said. With it, Carpenter will bow out of public office June 1.

His term would have expired next Jan. 1.

There is "no way" he would accept election to another legislative term as a write-in choice this November, he said.

And he will not seek office on his own again, he declared.

His only involvement in politics this election year might come if petitioners are successful in forcing a referendum vote on the state school aid law enacted by the 1974 Legislature, he said.

In that case, he said, he would be "available" to help support the school aid law and oppose its repeal by the voters.

Carpenter began his storied political career in Nebraska in 1932, winning election as a Democratic member of the U.S. House of Representatives.

In 1934, he undertook his first of what would come to be four campaigns for the governorship. In 1940, he was the Democratic nominee.

Carpenter sought a U.S. Senate seat five times, winning Democratic nominations in 1936, 1948 and 1972.

His bid for the lieutenant governorship was the second, having won the Democratic nomination in 1938

This campaign — apparently his last — was his 19th bid for state or national office in the last 22 elections.

Seven times he won election to the Legislature, serving a total of 18 years and dominating the place for the last decade.

"You always run a hazard in getting out front on issues," Carpenter said Wednesday. "And I was out there.

"Those who you help never seem to realize or understand it.

"And there are those who will be glad to see me gone. I was a roadblock for them."

Now Carpenter is planning some travel with his wife, including a vacation trip to Las Vegas.

While he's there, he plans to be a spectator — not a participant — perhaps for the first time.

"I've gambled for 60 years," he said.

Simmons, Olson Vie For Regents District 6

Robert G. Simmons Jr. of Scottsbluff and John P. Olson of Alliance were nominated to the University of Nebraska Board of Regents from the 6th District Tuesday.

They are running for the seat formerly held by the late John G. Elliott, who died in April. His widow, Camille Elliott, was appointed to serve out his unexpired term.

Simmons, 55, is a former FBI agent who served on the State Board of Education from 1964-70, and was a long-time Scottsbluff Board of Education member.

Olson, 39, operates the Prairie States Cattle Feeding Co. in Alliance.

Sidney Mayor John Gottschalk ran third in the 6th District, which sprawls over 32 northern and Panhandle counties. Other candidates trailed, in order: Don Steen of Morrill, Elvin Adamson of Nenzel, Frank Kleager of Scottsbluff, Albert Reddish of Alliance and Timothy Evensen of Plainview.

In the 7th District regents contest, incumbent Robert L. Raun of Minden won renomination. He will face North Platte attorney Harold W. Kay in the general election. Frederic Grady, a student from Broken Bow, finished third.

Raun, 46, was appointed to the board to fill two years of an unexpired term and was elected to a six-year term in 1968. Kay, 47, has served on the advisory council of the Nebraska Association of Technical Community Colleges and is counsel for the North Platte Public Schools and the Mid-Plains Technical Vocational College Area.

Balloting in the nonpolitical race covered 21 south central and southwest counties in the 7th District.

Board of Regents seats are six-year posts and carry no salary.

Lockwood-Peterson Race Set

Sixth District State Board of Education candidates Margaret Lockwood of Gering and Lawrence A. Peterson won nominations Tuesday and will face each other in November.

Henrietta Morrison of Mitchell and Jerry Hohnbaum of Ainsworth trailed.

Candidates in three Board of Education races automatically advanced to the November ballot.

In the 5th District, Dorothy Weyer Creigh of Hastings was unopposed.

Seventh District incumbent Marilyn Fowler and challenger Wilda Foran advanced to the general election ballot.

In the 8th District, Harold L. Peterson and Harry H. Roach, both of Omaha, advanced to the general election and will face one another in November. Incumbent Francis Y. Knapple did not seek re-election.

Amendments Nixed

Nebraska voters rejected proposed constitutional amendments to increase legislative salaries and remove the lieutenant governor as presiding officer of the Legislature.

Amendment 1, the salary proposal, ran a respectable race — but Amendment 2 was turned down in a landslide for the second time in four years.

Rejection of the lieutenant governor proposition means that, beginning in 1975, the state's second ranking executive officer will not only preside over the Unicameral, but also act as a full-time associate of the governor.

According to the terms of a 1970 constitutional amendment, the lieutenant governor will be elected this autumn as a teammate of the governor and assume whatever duties the governor assigns him.

As a full-time officer, the lieutenant governor's salary will rise to $25,000 next January.

Amendment 1 proposed an increase in the maximum salary for state senators from $400 to $675 a month.

Voters last approved a pay hike for legislators in 1968, but have turned down various proposals to permit salary increases in each of the following three elections, including Tuesday's primary balloting.

Senators are salaried at $400 monthly, and allowed one paid round trip home during each legislative session.

18-Year-Old Loses Mayoral Bid

Wayne (AP) — An 18-year-old Wayne High School senior lost his bid Tuesday to become this city's and Nebraska's youngest mayor.

With unofficial returns in from all four city wards, Samuel Hepburn was trail ing retired Wayne State College Professor Freeman B. Decker, 807-401.

Ord Trucker Romans Wins:

Service Commission Chairman Loses

John Swanson of Eustis, chairman of the Nebraska Public Service Commission, failed to win renomination to a third term in Tuesday's primary election.

Swanson apparently will be replaced in January by Ord trucker Jack Romans, a former state senator and the winner of a five-candidate Republican contest for the Fifth District nomination.

No Democrats were entered in the Fifth District race, leaving Romans with the only name on the November general election ballot.

Controversial In Senate

During his tenure in the Unicameral, Romans was a subject of occasional controversy.

In 1959, angered by faculty involvement in labor relations legislation, Romans called for an investigation of the University of Nebraska College of Law faculty, centering on hiring policies and practices.

In 1961, he sponsored legislation to tax the gross receipts of labor unions and provide detailed state regulation of their activities.

In the Fourth District, Commissioner Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont won the Republican nomination without opposition, and will face Democrat John Jacobs of Wood River in the fall.

Jacobs, 61, a farmer, also won nomination without a contest.

Rasmussen, 48, a former (1963-1969) state senator has been a member of the commission since 1969.

Swanson, 62, was first elected to the commission in 1964 He ran last in the GOP primary race.

Treasurer Beaten

Also defeated was State Treasurer Wayne Swanson of Crawford, who was attempting to return to the commission after two terms in the treasurer's post. Swanson was constitutionally prohibited from seeking a third term in his current post.

Swanson had served on the commission for 10 years prior to his 1966 election as treasurer.

Romans, 59, who served in the Legislature from 1959 to 1963, is president of Romans Motor Freight in Ord. He was an unsuccessful Republican gubernatorial candidate in 1964

Running behind him in the Fifth District GOP derby were Rex Haberman of Imperial, former State Sen. Lester Harsh of McCook and the two Swansons.

Hassett Wins Nomination For Assessor

Omaha (AP) — City Councilman Jerry Hassett won nomination Tuesday as Democratic candidate for Douglas County assessor.

Sworn in less than a year ago as a councilman, Hassett will face Republican Frank W. Bemis in the November general election.

Hassett defeated Laddie Kozeny Jr., a 1970 Democratic nominee who lost the general election that year.

Martin 'Disillusioned' By Nixon Transcripts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep Dave Martin, a senior Republican who is retiring from Congress after this session, said Wednesday he is "completely disillusioned and appalled" by the conversations related in the edited transcripts of White House tapes publicly released by President Nixon.

The 66-year-old Nebraskan, a consistent supporter of Nixon, just last week had repeated his criticism of the Judiciary Committee for the pace of its impeachment inquiry. He said he hoped the release of the transcripts "satisfies its appetite."

But Martin said he had now read about 300 of the 1,300 pages of edited transcripts "and I am completely appalled at the context.

"I am completely disillusioned with the type of conversation engaged in between the President an his top advisers," he wrote.

"The swearing and the apparent devious and callous manner in which the problems created by Watergate were handled is apparent. The American people have always held the Presidency, as an institution, on a pedestal This raw revealing of what happens in the Oval Office is a disillusioning experience for America."

Last week, Martin said the "only regret" he had about the transcripts was that they had not been released sooner

An aide to Martin said Wednesday that the congressman, a key member of GOP leadership groups in the House, opposes a forced resignation

TRUCK LOADED WITH GRAVEL . . . over turned after colliding with car carrying couple and their infant child.

Four Injured In Car-Truck Collision On Cornhusker, None Seriously

Four persons escaped serious injury Tuesday afternoon in a car-truck accident at 11th and Cornhusker Hwy. in which the truck, loaded with rock, overturned on its side.

Police said the driver of the truck, Gordon D. Denison, 24, of 1030 Norwood, was treated for scrapes on his back at Lincoln General Hospital and released.

Driver of the car, Joan E. Quimby, 20, of 1030 Norwood, was treated for back injuries at Lincoln General and held for observation.

Two other occupants of the car, Larry Quimby, 23, and Angela Quimby, 1, were treated for cuts and released from Lincoln General

Police said the auto was southbound on 11th St. and the truck westbound on Cornhusker Hwy. when the collision occurred. Denison told police the truck's brakes failed.

Fire, Emergency Improvements Suggested

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

"Substantial improvements are needed" in fire and emergency medical services in Lancaster County, according to a recently completed report by the Fire-Emergency Services Task Force of the County-City Implementation Commission.

The way to achieve improvements, the report states, is the "continued close cooperation" of persons and agencies involved, not extensive spending or changes in fire district boundaries.

The report now goes to the CCIC Citizen's Advisory Committee for its consideration. It then returns to the City-County Implementation itself, which may present the report, or an amended version, to city and county governments.

The eight-member task force, which compiled the report after eight months of study including ten public meetings throughout the county, also made a number of specific recommendations to improve services.

A central communications center should be established in the Lincoln Fire Department to provide for county-wide use of the so-called "911 system" for all types of emergencies, the report proposes.

This communications system should allow law enforcement, fire, ambulance and hospital emergency room personnel to communicate by "radio crosstalk," the report states, and should enable all staff in fire and emergency services to be alerted.

The report also states that the Lincoln Fire Department should be provided with a "county coordinator" to standardize training and operating procedures for fire and emergency medical services in the county.

The problems of fire service in the county are a need for coordination of effort, standards in equipment and service and uniformity in operating procedures, according to the report.

It notes that of 17 fire districts operating in Lancaster County, only four lie totally within the county. It also noted that an area of 20 sections north of Lincoln is not included in any fire district.

Among the measures recommended to improve fire protection are using electronic pagers to permit rapid alerting of volunteers and centralized purchasing of equipment for economy as well as insuring compatability of equipment.

The report, noting that tax support varies widely between the districts, suggests the Lancaster County Board provide central guidance after studying district budgets and mill levies.

Emergency medical service in the county is "rather piecemeal and of uneven quality," the report states.

The report, however, commends private ambulance companies in Lincoln and volunteer units in Crete (Saline County), Hallam and Valparaiso (Saunders County) for doing an outstanding job in providing individual services.

The report states that federal, state and local agencies are not now working in close cooperation to improve medical services for Lincoln and rural Lancaster County.

The report suggests that four volunteer ambulance services, possibly based at nursing homes or fire stations, be established, one for each corner of the county.

A plan should also be developed with Lincoln hospitals to establish trained teams to deal with emergency coronary care, burns, poisonings and similar emergencies under a physician's direction by radio from a hospital emergency department, the report says.

The report praised service being provided by the Bryan Hospital Mobile Heart Team with support from the Lincoln Fire Department.

The report is the second completed by a CCIC task force, of which there are seven.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 5-16
